BIG SHOPPING EXPOSITION GAINS INTEREST

Our City Comment & discussion by THOMAS D. WATSON

Objection to the Sewer Plan Shows Itself

IN our column, "Editorials by the People," in today's paper appears a letter from one of our citizens in answer to our editorial yesterday, which commented on the sewer problem.

In the first paragraph of this letter the writer appears to take exception to our paying for a sewer which will be used by Eagle Rock, Atwater, Angelus Park, Lankershim, Van Nuys and other parts of Los Angeles.

WE should not worry over this for as long as the capacity of the sewer is large enough to take care of these towns, we should welcome them using it, for this will mean that they will also participate in its upkeep, which will cut down our share.

IN the third paragraph the letter mentions that our proportion of the late Los Angeles sewer bonds, according to our assessed valuation last year, would have been approximately $300,000. In the Los Angeles bond issue no provision was made for taking care of Glendale's sewers and if the cost of installation of our sewers were added, undoubtedly the cost would have been as high as that of the present plans.

SOME criticism has been offered because of assertions that the people have not been consulted enough.

We believe this criticism to be unfounded, for after the details are worked out the entire plan will have to be submitted to the people. In order to build the sewer, bonds will have to be voted and this means the people have the last say.

AGAIN we suggest that now is a time for all loyal citizens to get together and do all they can to convince the Los Angeles council that our request is a reasonable one. An acceptance of this viewpoint by the Los Angeles city council will give us something definite to work on, and should the majority of the citizens feel that the final acceptance of the plan would be detrimental to our future they can defeat it with the ballot when it comes to a vote.

* * *

THURSDAY night, May 24, the Glendale Music club is giving a concert at the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse, in order to provide money to start a scholarship fund. The concert should have the patronage of a large number of our citizenship, for the inaugurating of a fund to help in the musical education of talented young Glendale artists is surely more than worth while. If you can attend, do so, as the concert in itself will be enjoyable and in addition your presence will aid in a good cause.

THOSE who are not able to attend should support the movement by buying tickets or aiding with a donation.

It is planned that Miss Hazel Linkogel will be the first to profit by this fund, for the club plans on sending her to Chicago to study violin under Leopold Auer, who is accepted as one of the world's master violin instructors.

MISS Linkogel has been more than generous in using her talents to play whenever requested and we of Glendale who have enjoyed her playing should not hesitate in doing what we can to further her musical education.

C. OF C. DIRECTORS WOULD CONCENTRATE ON SEWER PROJECT

Declare Council Should Do Nothing for Civic Center Until Disposal Is Secured Through Los Angeles City Outfall or Other Plan

IT IS BELIEVED WOULD CAUSE CONFUSION

Board of Directors Hears of New Order Wishing to Locate Here and Promising to Spend a Million Dollars for Improvements

That the council should do nothing in the way of attempting to secure the high school site as a civic center until Glendale's sewer problem has been successfully settled, is the sentiment of the directors of the Chamber of Commerce as voiced at the meeting of the board held Tuesday noon.

"The sewer problem is the biggest thing before Glendale today," said Director C. E. Kimlin, who is also a member of the city council, "and I believe that to a greater or lesser extent everything else should be kept to one side. We must have sewers and if anything else is brought up to becloud the issue there is a chance that the sewer bonds, notwithstanding the fact that Glendale's very life depends on sewers, may be defeated.

"The council has worked long and hard on this sewer problem and it now looks as though Glendale's offer to Los Angeles will be accepted. No matter how enthusiastic we are concerning the civic center we must not lose sight of the fact that a feature of this kind would be a poor substitute for the sewer.

"It looks as though we would be successful in this sewer matter," said W. E. Hewitt, vice-president of the chamber. "I attended a meeting yesterday before the city council of Los Angeles and although the matter was put over for one week it was evident to us that the council is favorably disposed to the proposition.

"Like Mr. Kimlin I believe we should be very careful not to permit anything to come in the way of the sewers, not even a civic center."

Just prior to the discussion on this question a report was read from the committee that was appointed to meet with the civics committee of Community Service. This was to the effect that the chamber go on record as endorsing the purchase of the high school site as a civic center, providing it can be secured without interfering with the school facilities of Glendale.

The board decided to refer the matter back to the committee with a request for a more detailed re-

POLICE NET GETS BURGLAR VISITOR

Typewriters and Adding Machines Are Also Recovered

The typewriter that was stolen from the office of W. J. Curren, 221-A West Broadway and the typewriter and the adding machine that were taken from the office of the Oakmont Country club in the Monarch building Tuesday night have been found. The recovery of the machines came as a result of the thief who took them, and whose name has not been ascertained by the local police department, disposing of them in Pomona yesterday afternoon.

After stealing the machines, this fellow, evidently, headed east. Upon reaching Pomona he offered the machines for sale to one of the merchants of that place, it is understood. This merchant, after making the purchase, called up the police of that place to see if any machines of that character had been stolen in that place. Upon learning that the machines had been stolen from Glendale, this merchant called the bank to stop payment on the check. He was informed that the check had already been cashed, but that the stranger was still in the bank. Quick work on the part of the Pomona police resulted in the apprehension of the fellow and the recovery of the money.

The police believe that the coupe in which the fellow was riding was a car stolen by him from Glendale or nearby territory.

The arrest resulted, indirectly, from the quick work of the Glendale police department in telephoning the details and the numbers of the machines, to the police departments of the surrounding cities.

Detective Sergeant Royle will leave this afternoon for Riverside, where the thief has been taken. He will be returned to Glendale and will probably stand trial for burglary.

NORTHWEST FOLKS ASK JUNIOR HIGH OF TRUSTEES

Present Resolutions to the Board Which Is Awaiting Advice

One of the important communications received by the trustees of Glendale union high school at their meeting Tuesday evening was a copy of resolutions adopted by the Northwest Improvement Association asking the trustees to establish a junior high school district and to dispose of the present high school plant for use as a civic center.

As the board has yet to learn from County Superintendent Keppel and the county counsel the modus operandi by which this can be legally accomplished, the communication was placed on file for further consideration.

Principal Moyse reported an official announcement from Superintendent Keppel that Eagle Rock is now a part of the Los Angeles city school district.

The admission of students from outside districts was discussed and the board voted not to admit them except on the basis of an even numerical exchange.

Architect Austin reported ways by which he was pushing work on the new buildings and securing cooperation between sub-contractors to that end. The board officially O. K.'d minor changes in the plans.

An answer received from the county counsel relative to the procedure to be followed in selling the present high school plant in the furthering of a movement to convert it into a civic center, stated that legislation passed by the present legislature would have a bearing on the matter and he would need further time for investigation.

TUESDAY CLUB MEMBERS SHOW THEIR CONFIDENCE IN PRESENT EXECUTIVES

Re-elected Without Opposition by Balloting, Which Is Small Compared With the Total Membership of the Organization

FIRST ELECTION IS HELD IN THE NEW HOME

Day Marked With Reception to Heads of Various Organizations of Glendale That Have Helped the Realization of the Clubhouse

Just before the session closed yesterday, Mrs. Frank Ayars, chairman of the nominating committee and head of the election board of the Tuesday Afternoon club, reported returns on the vote for club officers for 1923-24 as follows:

Total votes cast, 164, out of a toatl of 778 entitled to vote.

The following were elected:
President, Mrs. Daniel Campbell.
First vice president, Mrs. A. H. Montgomery.
Second vice president, Mrs. Charles W. Houston.
Recording secretary, Mrs. William Hunter.
Corresponding secretary, Mrs. Frank Ayars.
Treasurer, Mrs. M. E. Plasterer.
Directors, Mrs. Lilian Dow and Mrs. John Sargent.

Tuesday was a very busy day at the new home of the Tuesday Afternoon club, where a luncheon was served at noon to some of the representative men and heads of various organizations of the city who had been invited to enjoy the hospitality of the organization and inspect the new plant in which the entire community is interested and to which it has contributed more or less directly.

By the time these guests were leaving, members had begun to arrive and cast their ballots for club officers, the polls remaining open until 3:30. There was no contest for any of the officers except recording secretary and directorships, the straw ballot of members having renominated the officers of the past year for the other offices.

In the auditorium a community sing, led by Hugo Kirchofer, was filling the air with the strains of familiar melodies, the president, Mrs. Daniel Campbell, and Mr. Kirchofer singing one verse of "Love's Old Sweet Song" in duet.

In the palm room a food sale in charge of Mrs. Colin Cable, chairman of hospitality, and members

NATIONAL GUARD HEADQUARTERS ROBBED

Lockers Broken Into and Many Articles Are Stolen

The National Guards headquarters, located on North Brand over the Pacific Southwest Trust and Savings Bank, was entered and robbed some time Tuesday night. Every locker in the room was opened and ransacked and, it is believed, a number of articles of value, belonging to the members of the guard, were taken. The exact number and value of the things stolen cannot be ascertained until the guard members turn in their reports.

The theft was discovered by Officer Louis Nunn, who noticed the lower door of the hall opened. Upon investigation he found the guard room door open and the lockers broken.

STORE TO STORE MERCHANT PLUS GLENDALE DAILY PRESS MONDAY BARGAIN DAY IS BIG SENSATION

First Demonstration of Buying Power of the People of Glendale Sought on Basis of Concentration, Not on Bargain Business But on Survey of Stores

The announcement of the big store-to-store merchant-plus-Glendale Daily Press Monday shopping exposition yesterday created a stir of interest that was the commercial sensation of the city.

It was received as a challenge among the merchants, a challenge for the first city price and goods show-down ever issued in Glendale.

Among the shoppers it was taken with an interest that indicates a ready participation of the citizens of Glendale in the big event.

For, with the majority of the merchants enlisted to enter in the spirit of establishing a day that in the annals of Glendale may be marked by big savings of time and energy, it is a big event.

If all these merchants, offering various lines of goods, were part of one great department store, and advertising a price showing such as that which will appear in the Saturday issue of the Glendale Daily Press, it would form an exposition whose importance would be recognized. As it is, with each proprietor in his own store, ready to give personal service plus goods and prices, it will be extra alluring to Glendale people.

Before Saturday these merchants will be given an opportunity to describe the goods and quality of goods they will offer on Monday.

Remember this that the exposition can only be made a big success by the people of Glendale reserving purchases until Monday so as to deliver the buying power direct to the stores, on Monday, after reading the exposition's offering in the Saturday afternoon Glendale Daily Press. The effect of this will be the defining of the normal purchasing power of the city, to the merchant, the volume of which has never been known. The merchants advertising in the Glendale Daily Press will then know how to gauge their offerings for the following Monday.

Remember this is not a bargain day in a strict sense. It is a day of bargains and enlightenment.

That Monday is to be the biggest shopping day in the week for Glendale, is the belief at which leading merchants of this city have arrived after carefully analyzing business conditions here. This move on the part of the merchants is daily gaining strength as reports from all parts of the business district indicate.

Each day more merchants are signifying their intention of being represented on the shopping page which is to appear in the Press of Saturday of each week. This

Jack Huntley, Although Badly Hurt, Boosts for Music Club Concert

"I haven't subscribed enough," whispered Jack Huntley, lying weak from his injuries at the Glendale Research hospital, and thinking of the Music club's effort to finance Hazel Linkogel in her effort to reach the great musical contest in Chicago. "Tell them to double the amount."

That was why Mrs. Huntley appeared at the meeting of the high school trustees last night and doubled her husband's subscription, making it $50.

The many friends of J. G. Huntley, now in a critical condition as the result of an accident while horseback riding, will be glad to know that slight improvement is noted by his physicians and nurses and Mrs. Huntley is entertaining strong hope for him.

He is very weak, however, and not able to speak much nor above a whisper. Before his accident he subscribed for $25 worth of tickets for the concert to be given Thursday evening in compliment to Miss Hazel Linkogel at the Tuesday Afternoon club.

BOYS' BAND MEETING SET FOR TOMORROW AFTERNOON AT 4:30

The Glendale Community Service boys' band, which was recently organized and is open to any of the boys of Glendale who play, will meet tomorrow, Thursday afternoon, at 4:30 o'clock at the Wilson avenue intermediate school for practice under the direction of H. E. Cavanah. There is no admission fee for entrance in the band. Mr. Tucker, Community Service executive, states that the band books have arrived and may be secured today or tomorrow at his office in the Citizens' building or at the band practice.

GLENDALE AUTO DEALERS 'JINX DATE IS SET

May Tour Rim o' the World, Which Is Near the Big Fish

The Glendale Automobile Dealers' association will hold its second annual jinx on June 14 and 15, at which time it is believed all of the members of that organization will make a tour of the "Rim o' the World," which lies just north of San Bernardino, and which includes Arrowhead and Big Bear lakes. If this trip is decided upon the party will enter the "Rim" from San Bernardino and after making the trip will leave the hills at Redlands.

The boys are planning on making this trip one of the big events of the year. If the "Rim" is decided upon as a scene for the jaunt special events will be planned for different stages of the outing and everything will be of the jinx nature.

RECKLESS DRIVING COSTS MUCH MONEY

C. B. Murphy, who was arrested Sunday in Glendale, plead guilty to a charge of reckless driving before Judge Lowe yesterday and was fined $300. If he is unable to furnish this amount by 4 o'clock Thursday he will be sent to the county jail for 150 days, states Judge Lowe.

CASHES CHECK ON PHONY GLENDALE BADGE

A person giving his name as Mr. Tracy, and who represented himself as a Glendale motor officer, is reported by Russell Wagner, clerk of the Hayward hotel in Los Angeles, to have given a "bogus" check in return for services at that hotel. This fellow, according to Wagner, wore the uniform of an officer and displayed a badge.

There is no one on the Glendale police force by the name of Tracy and the officers are at a loss to know who the fellow can be. An investigation is being made by the Los Angeles department.

MUSIC CLUB BENEFIT IS BIG EVENT

Miss Linkogel to Be Financed As Glendale's Contestant at Chicago

TO BE FINE PROGRAM

Social and Business Circles of City Approve Effort to Establish Scholarship Fund

Plans have been completed for the big concert which is to be staged by the Glendale Music Club at the Tuesday Afternoon Club auditorium tomorrow, Thursday night, May 24, for the Scholarship Fund. Miss Hazel Linkogel, talented young Glendale artist, will be enabled by the proceeds of the affair to go to Chicago and compete for a scholarship in violin under Leopold Auer, one of the world's master instructors.

Miss Linkogel will join the contestants from practically every state in the Union and should she prove the winner Glendale will be instantly put on the map in producing such a splendid young artist. In the event that Miss Linkogel should not receive this scholarship she will try out again in the fall for a permanent scholarship.

The program to be given Thursday night is varied to suit all, and the artists' numbers are especially interesting. The negro melody to be sung by Mr. Carl Gantvoort, was composed by his brother, who is one of the prominent American composers. It is seldom two musicians of such splendid worth are counted in the same family. Carl Gantvoort was a gold medal winner in the College of Music in Cincinnati, after which he entered the operatic and concert fields. He has won laurels which he wears very modestly and is always glad to assist young artists in their endeavors.

From the program given below it will be noted that one of Charles Wakefield Cadman's songs will be heard in Glendale for the first time, "The Moon-Heaven." Miss Linkogel, violinist, and Henry Grace, who will accompany her at the piano, are both members of the Junior Music Club, as are also the

MERCHANTS FALL FOR PHONY CHECKS

Merchants of Glendale are again urged to use discretion in the cashing of checks by unidentified persons, particularly after banking hours. J. F. Stanford, prominent realtor of 112½ South Brand boulevard, reports that his name has been forged to a number of checks written on the Glendale Savings bank, in which he carries no account. A local automobile supply company cashed a check for $48.50, to which Mr. Stanford's name had been forged, on Saturday night. Mr. Stanford has also been informed that another forged check for $18.50 had been cashed by a meat market on South San Fernando road, also on Saturday night.

"What I cannot understand is why anyone should pick on me out of a city of over 30,000 people when choosing a name to forge," said Mr. Stanford.

ALCO GAS DRIVER HELD FOR TRIAL

B. Gonzales, who was arrested as a result of an acident on San Fernando road, Sunday, and against whom a charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated was filed, was held over to the Superior Court yesterday by Judge Lowe. His bail was fixed at $500 cash or $1,000 property bond. Being unable to furnish this amount he was taken to the county jail.

When arrested Gonzales had in his machine a part of a bottle of "white mule" whiskey, acording to Judge Lowe.

U. S. WILL SPEND THOUSANDS FOR HIGHWAYS

SAN FRANCISCO, May 23.—"The Federal Government will spend $646,000 in building highways in the National Forests of California this year," announces District Forester Paul G. Redington, of the local headquarters of the United States Forest Service. The program contemplates the construction of the five following projects, which were agreed upon in joint conference with the Bureau of Public Roads and the State Highway Commission, and which have been submitted to the Secretary of Agriculture for approval.

1. Crescent City-Grants Pass Road, Siskiyou National Forest, $75,000. This project is a section of the Redwood Highway, and the appropriation made will provide for the continuation of construction work already started under the Federal allotment of $220,000 made last year.

2. Kern River Canyon Road, Sequoia National Forest, $150,000. This projects covers the construction of 8.4 miles of road, which is a part of State Route No. 57, extending from the Coast Highway near Santa Maria to Owens Valley via Bakersfield and Walkers Pass. It will provide an outlet from the San Joaquin Valley to the country east of the Sierras.

3. Big Bear Valley Road, Angeles National Forest, $75,000. A forest highway which will reach Big Bear Valley Dam is now under construction, and this new project provides an extension which will make the terminus of the road at the center of the popular recreation area surrounding Big Bear Lake.

4. Murphys-Big Trees Road, Stanislaus National Forest, $160,000. This construction work will improve a 15.6 mile section of the road, extending from Murphys to the region east of Lake Tahoe—one of the most noted summer playgrounds of the state. Co-operation in the sum of about $50,000 will also be provided by Calaveras County.

5. Yuba Pass Road, Tahoe National Forest, $143,000. This project cals for the reconstruction of 13 miles of road across Yuba Pass to replace the present road, which is in poor condition. It will provide an east and west route across Sierra County and also form a link of the trunk highway extending from Auburn to Reno via Nevada City, Bowieville and the Sierra Valley.

In addition to these five construction projects, the National Forest Highway program also embraces an allotment of $43,000 for final location surveys on the Covelo-Low Gap Road and the Arroyo Seco-San Gabriel via Mt. Islip Road. $10,000 of this fund will also be used to make a location survey of the Yuba Pass Project. The proposed Covelo-Low Gap Road on the California National Forest is a link in a very important trunk highway connecting the Sacramento Valley with points in Mendocino County. The Arroyo Seco-San Gabriel project is a highly important road on the Angeles National Forest which will connect the State Highway now extending from the Los Angeles Valley to the mountainous regions of the north.

Construction work on all National Forest road projects will be started, stated Mr. Redington, as soon as the program is approved by the Secretary of Agriculture and the necessary contracts let. The work will be done under the supervision of the Bureau of Public Roads. These expenditures are in addition to some half million dollars which will be spent this year by the Forest Service on the improvement and construction of minor National Forest roads and trails.

port as to the cost of the site, the expense of remodeling the various buildings so as to make them suitable for city hall and other purposes.

The matter of providing a reception committee to take care of the guests who will come to assist in opening Glendale's Industrial Exposition was left to the committee headed by L. H. Wilson.

In regard to the matter of the Glendale chamber entering the mammoth exposition to be held during the summer in Los Angeles, the matter was referred to the committee for further investigation and report.

George Bentley, chairman of the depot committee, reported that the contracts for the new Southern Pacific depot in Glendale have been let and that work will start within a short time. He stated that the station will be located at the foot of Cerritos Avenue.

The membership campaign of the chamber will start on June 1, according to a report made by the board by Vice-President Hewitt. Mr. Morris, who is connected with this drive, is in Glendale now looking over the ground.

George M. Cornwall, editor of The Timberman, which is published in Portland, Ore., was introduced by Director Bentley, and gave an interesting talk on the growth of Southern California, and the reason for this increase. He reiterated the statement so often made, that the people of the outside world has its eye on this section, and expects some day to locate here.

A letter was read from the Order of the Sacred Flame asking about a location here. The communication stated that this order intends locating somewhere in Southern California and that it will spend one million dollars in the improvement of the site selected.

A communication containing a resolution passed by the San Luis Obispo chamber of commerce criticising the action of Governor criticising the action of Governor Richardson in vetoing the bill appropriating funds for educational facilities in Southern California was read, and after some discussion it was decided to refer this matter to the school commitee for investigation and report at the next meeting.

A communication from Dr. Jessie A. Russell asking that she be supplied with literature for distribution at the National Convention of Realtors to be held in Cleveland, Ohio, soon, was read, and it was decided to supply Dr. Russell with as many copies as she needs of the Glendale issue of the Arrowhead, which will appear soon.

Miss Brown was at the pier in New York to greet the young Earl of Northesk, who will be 22 in September. She met the earl about a year ago in London and later he saw her dance on the stage. He urged Miss Brown to marry him at once, according to dispatches from London, but she declared she wanted to talk it over with her mother, Mrs. Albert W. Starke of Buffalo. She returned from London last April. Miss Brown was formerly Mrs. Cyril De Witt Reinhard, wife of the naval constructor and radio engineer, whom she divorced in Chicago last October.

Editorials by the People

Glendale, Calif.
May 22, 1923.

To the Editor
Glendale Daily Press:

It would appear from news reports and your editorial of Tuesday that the solution of the sewer problem for Glendale in the manner advocated by the city council is meeting with some opposition or delay on the part of the city council of Los Angeles. This indeed, seems strange if the proposal can be put into practical operation, for it would appear that our city council has made the astounding proposal of agreeing to build a large section of this sewer through the city of Los Angeles at a cost of $800,000. No small or niggardly gift when it is understood that this sewer is to be built with Glendale taxes to provide sewer mains for Eagle Rock, Atwater, Angelus Park, Lankershim, Van Nuys, and other Los Angeles territory; and, after paying the cost Glendale may have the "privilege' 'of tieing on to this main, and in addition to further "privilege" of not only then providing sewer mains and laterals for our own city, but also af paying an unstated proportion of the cost of "operation."

The further statement is made: "There is a group of citizens who are of the opinion that the cost is prohibitive, and would prefer to gain the connection through annexation," and that: "A close study will convince the most skeptical that even if we did get sewer facilities through annexation we would assume a great amount of indebtedness than we would by building our own sewer."

Let us see! To have paid our proportion of the bonds for the Los Angeles outfall sewer based on our assessed valuation last year would have cost Glendale taxpayers approximately $300,000.00. But our city council voluntarily offers the sum of $800,000 for this same service, or a difference of $500,000, truly a princely gift, and we still have no sewer mains in Glendale, mind you, but merely the "privilege" to tie on to a sewer in Los Angeles. Last year we paid 90c on the $100 more in taxes than did the citizens of Los Angeles. This year with the added burden of assuming the high school taxes, repudiated by Eagle Rock when it joined Los Angeles after we had generously placed our high school right on its border, and the additional heavy bonds voted for grammar school purposes, we may either look for a horizontal raise in our assessed valuation or a greatly increased tax rate or possibly both; and it would not be surprising if our taxes were $2 higher on the $100 than Los Angeles taxes for 1923-24.

When that time comes, Mr. Editor, and we are fast approaching it, we will be forced to join Los Angeles whether we wish it or not; and then with a greatly added burden of local bonds that as in case of bonds for sewer facilities might be spread over a very much larger territory. In the language of Poor Richard, we can "pay too much for our whistle."

Yours truly,
J. R. GREY.

BROADWAY HOTEL PAINTING HUNG

A thrill of excitement shot thru the veins of the residents of East Glendale today when a painting of the hotel that will be constructed at the corner of Glendale avenue and Broadway was hung at that intersection. The painting is mounted on a board, about 10 feet above the sidewalk, the picture itself to be about 8x10 feet in size. It is done in oil and is a beauty. It has been painted and is being hung by Lindley & Selkirk, architects of the building.

The head of the house came downstairs in an irate frame of mind and told his wife that Bobbie had taken some change from his pockets.

"I don't think it's fair of you to accuse Bobbie that way, Jack. Why, you might as well say I'd taken it!

"Oh, no, my dear," the brute answered; "it wasn't all taken, you know!"

SCIOTS INVITE VALLEY MASONS TO SMOKER

All Master Masons in the San Fernando valley are invited to attend the final organization meeting of the Glendale Pyramid, Ancient Egyptian Order of Sciots, which will be held Thursday evening, May 24, at 8 o'clock in the Pearl Keller hall, at 103-A North Brand boulevard. There will be an entertainment and smoker.

At this meeting everything will be prepared to make application for the charter for the Glendale Pyramid. Dick Kinley of Glendale and Frank Witherell of Los Angeles will have charge of the meeting. They state that the Glendale organization will be one of the livest pyramids in the state, as already many prominent Masons have joined and a number of others have expressed their intention of doing so.

The Order of Sciots is said to be the Rotary club of Masonry. One of the objects of the order is to unite all Master Masons in a closer bond of friendship, fellowship and co-operation.

GLENDALE FOLKS GET BACK SOME STOLEN GOODS

Alvin Reneau Found in Possession of Much Valuable Property

Alvin Reneau, who was arrested by the Los Angeles police on May 15, had preliminary hearing on a burglary charge before Judge Lowe yesterday, and was held to appear before the superior court for trial. His bail was fixed at $2000 cash, or $4000 property bond. Being unable to furnish this he was taken to the county jail.

All of the articles which were found in Reneau's possession, according to the police, have been identified by the Glendale owners, whose homes were entered on the evenings of May 6 and 9. Before he was caught, however, Reneau had disposed of most of the articles that were of unusual value.

In order to carry out his unlawful operations Reneau stole an automobile in Los Angeles, according to the police, and in this way made the two trips mentioned to Glendale, using the machine to carry the "goods" back to the sister city.

No time has been set for the trial, but it will be within 90 days.

TUJUNGA HOLDS ANNUAL BENEFIT PERFORMANCE

Story of Little Homes Among the Hills Is Told

TUJUNGA, May 23.—Telling the story of San Ysidro, patron saint of the little homes, John Stephen McGroarty, author of the Mission Play spectacle that has captured the hearts of playgoers from all parts of the United States, spoke before scores of representatives from Glendale, Montrose, La Crescenta and Tujunga Monday night, when the Mission Play management presented the annual benefit entertainment at the "Garden of the Moon," Tujunga.

The road has been completed to the top of Mt. McGroarty, where a white concrete cross has been placed as a memorial to San Ysidro, whose life story is a series of good deeds toward the poor people who lived during his time. San Ysidro, according to the story told by McGroarty, was adopted as the saint of the little homes for this reason, and it is due to this fact that the cross has been dedicated to him, as a memorial, and also as a protection to the "little homes" in Tujunga.

The entertainment, which was given for the benefit of the Monte Vista Post No. 250 of the American Legion, and for the Episcopal church of Tujunga, featured a special program presented by Monroe Salisbury, and Mrs. Tyrone Power, leads in the Mission Play, assisted by a group of musicians. Several minstrel and vaudeville numbers were cleverly executed. One of the most enjoyable numbers was the Romeo and Juliet scene, with a balcony and all the necessary settings, coupled with the attractions of genuine moonlight afforded by the outdoor setting.

Preceding the entertainment, members of the Glendale, Montrose, and La Crescenta realty boards were the guests of the Tujunga board at an appetizing outdoor banquet. Wilmot parcher, of Tujunga, was the first speaker. His remarks welcoming the visitors were followed by talks by Mayor Spencer Robinson, Cameron Thom, president of the Glendale Realty board, Thomas W. Watson, formerly city manager of Glendale, Mark Collins, prominent in La Crescenta and Montrose, and M. V. Hartranft, founder of Tujunga. Mr. Hartranft told of the early days of Tujunga, which was started 14 years ago. At the first election, when John Stephen McGroarty was nominated for mayor and the question of incorporating was voted upon at the same election, McGroarty was elected by a large majority, but the issue to incorporate was defeated. Wallace M. Morgan acted as toastmaster at the banquet, in the absence of Dr E. T. Theobald, who is president of the Tujunga Realty board.

Among those present for the evening's entertainment, were Mayor Cryer of Los Angeles with a party from Hollywood, and F. W. Plaisted, former governor of Maine, who is now a resident of Tujunga. Glendale was represented by 125 real estate dealers.

CITY EMPLOYES DANCE? TUT! TUT!

The all-absorbing influence of King Tut, and the "Tut" way of doing things, has invaded the hitherto serene domain of the city employes at city hall and as a consequence, they are broadcasting an invitation to any and all to come and join in the King Tut dance at the American Legion hall Thursday night.

McClay's "Dusky Sheiks" have been secured by the City Engineering department to dispense music of a nature that will make the best dancer in Glendale, dance better, and the one who has never danced before, will awaken to the sense of syncopation at which he has marvelled, in others, but never dreamed of possessing.

L. J. Fortier and T. R. Goodman are assisting the engineering department to engineer the King Tut retinue into the limelight. Several surprise numbers are to be offered, and it goes without saying that they will savor strongly of the atmospheric conditions of King Tut's tomb, et fashions, et customs, et cetera.

Incidentally, it is announced that King Tut dress will be the vogue of the evening. The dangle earring, the King Tut blouse, dress, sandal—all will be appropriate features of Milady's dress for this night.

The public is invited, and those in charge are ready to guarantee that all will spend an enjoyable evening.

PRIZE DESIGN IN BUILDING STIRS BIG INTEREST

Security Housing Corporation Announces Big Enthusiasm

C. H. M. Mayer of Follmer & Mayer, soliciting agents for the Security Housing Corporation in Glendale, announves that the architectural contest being put on by the corporation in connection with its exhibit at the coming Glendale Industrial Exposition has met with ready approval and a large number have signed up for a try at the cash prizes.

Interest has been manifested by a number who do not wish to enter the contest but who do not want to miss the exhibition of splendid designs that a contest of this kind calls forth. This interest will have its effect on the design of future Glendale homes, and while it cannot be computed in dollars and cents, an influence of this sort is of untold value to a community.

This contest is of special interest to the architectural department of the Glendale high school, both Mr. Wilson and Mr. Lockwood of that department having expressed themselves to that effect. In commenting, Mr. Wilson said, in substance, a contest of this sort always calls forth splendid and ingenious designs that are of interest to most of us, since most plans can be adapted to almost any size house. Good home planning, in other words, architectural service, is true economy.

In the first place, good design eliminates waste spaces of all kinds and every dollar invested is 100 per cent efficient, which means you can sell your house at a right price quickly. A salable house is an asset, an unsalable house a liability.

Attractive exterior design is not only an asset to property but improves the neighborhood and values remain stable there. Take a district where all homes are beautiful and a good class of people is found contented and permanent. These are the people who form the backbone of the community.

Good construction is the most necessary consideration when we consider permanency. A poorly built home rapidly deteriorates, which causes the district to deteriorate and in turn has its effect on the entire community.

We owe it to our city to build well-built, well-planned homes.

Whatever benefit accrues to the Security Housing Corporation for taking a step in this direction, it undeniably is helping the community.

GLENDALE BOOSTER SONG

By PHIL. FELTON, Casa Verdugo

I've traipsed the wide world over,
I've sailed 'most every sea—
But my heart is sure with Glendale,
For it's home, sweet home to me.
There may be other cities
That can lead us in a way,
But as a worth-while city,
Glendale is sure O. K.

All around us smiling valleys,
Producing boundless wealth;
A contented, happy people,
Brimful of pep and health.
Prosperous, clean and up-to-date,
A city of work and play,
A city of matchless climate—
The home of a perfect day.

CHORUS

So ho, boys! Let us make a noise,
Let us make the welkin ring.
Let us do our very best,
Just get it off your chest,
And all together let us sing,
Glendale, dear old Glendale—
No matter where we roam—
Glendale, dear old Glendale,
Is surely home, sweet home.

Will some one write music for this Booster Song?

Those Nervous Ills

By H. ADDINGTON BRUCE

Author of "The Riddle of Personality," "Self-Development," Etc.

(Copyright, 1923, by The Associated Newspapers)

It is a sound principle which that eminent English neurologist, Dr. E. F. Buzzard, lays down when he declares, as he did in an address to a body of physicians:

"Among the weeds that have choked the plant of mental hygiene, the strongest and most obnoxious is one that was sown in ignorance and that has been nourished on fear.

"I refer to the fallacious belief, deeply implanted in the public mind, that so-called functional nervous disorders, or 'nerves,' are not mental disorders. Surely the time has come to discard a verbal quibble that is unworthy of a scientific profession."

Of course, the reason this "verbal quibble" has not been discarded long since is popular misidentification of mental disorders in general with insanity in particular.

Doctors have hesitated to tell psychoneurotic patients that their aches and pains, their insomnias and dyspepsias are at bottom symptoms of mental trouble, because they are well aware that the patients might jump to the conclusion that the doctors thought them insane or on the highway to insanity. This would only make a bad matter worse—would, in fact, make the patients more psychoneurotic than ever.

Yet it might rearily be made clear to them that by "mental trouble" was meant in thier case merely a faulty mental habit, the correction of which was within their own power and was a prerequisite to obtaining relief from the symptoms of which they complained. Once they were satisfied that their sanity was not in question, the way would be open for the corrective mental treatment they most of all need.

Take, for example, the case of a person afflicted with a psychoneurotic inability to sleep.

Here the underlying cause usually is a conscious or subconscious "fixed idea" that sleep is impossible. So long as this fixed idea persists, treatment of the insomnia by any means is pretty sure to be unsatisfactory.

Certainly it will not do simply to tell the patient that he is "nervous," and to prescribe sedatives for him. There is needed a frank, if tactful, explanation of the mental factor involved—an explanation which may of itself suffice to overcome the chronic sleeplessness.

So with other mentally caused conditions erroneously labelled "nervous disorders." Once patients and the public generally are educated to recognize their real origin and to recognize it without falling into a needless panic, not only will treatment be more successful, but there will be less and less necessity for treatment.

Physicians are of all people in the best position to undertake such education. In the interest both of curative and of preventive medicine they should undertake it.

Listening in on Eve

DOCTOR'S ORDERS

The lady with the severe nose and unsheltered ears in the row behind leaned forward suddenly, sniffed and then leaned back with an expression of unbelief. Regaining her breath, she whispered to her companion with the retiring chin. He too, leaned forward, eyes wide, and sat back, shaking his head.

"Just as plain!" the lady with the severe nose insisted. "Twice! From his hip pocket!"

"Something," said the gentleman with the retiring chin indignantly, "should be done about it. But I don't seem to smell it!"

"He was quick about," explained the lady aggrievedly. "Neither could I. He just pulled the bottle out, took a drink and then put it back. I suppose he thinks with the lights turned down this way nobody right here and we'll be dragged in can see him! He'll get arrested as witnesses, and all that company coming tomorrow, and everything! Aren't you going to do anything about it, Augustus?"

"You're spoiling the play for me," the gentleman with the retiring chin told her, irritably. "I shall speak to the management in the intermission, if he does it again."

"He did it!" the severe lady gasped a minute later in vast excitement. The middle-aged man in front of her rested his head on his hand and his elbow on the chair arm when he completed his swallow. "I hope he doesn't fall out of his chair," she gasped.

When the lights went up in the intermission she nudged the irritated gentleman until he arose and wandered out, meeting a nervous usher.

"Say," began the irritated man, "guy right in front of us is swallowing liquor from his hip pocket, and as a peace-loving and law-abiding citizen I protest!"

"Gee!" said the usher uncertainly. "Whaddjew expect me to do about it?" he inquired in injured tones. "Is he a big guy?"

"Immensely," said the informer positively.

"I'll tell the head usher,' brightened the nervous usher. "What's he do to earn his salary, anyhow, I'd like to know! Come on!"

"Huh!" said the head usher. "Lemme see him!"

The three tiptoed back to a position of vantage. Even as they stared the middle-aged man was seen to take a quick look around, extract a bottle and a swallow from it.

"There!" cried the irritated genteman triumphantly.

"Gee!" breathed the nervous usher.

"Er-r-r-hum!" said the head usher "I shall speak to the manager at once! Come on!

Three went while the curtain arose on the second act. Four came back eventually.

"Where is he?" whispered the worried manager.

"There," said the irritated gentleman. "Right in front of my wife—can't you see him? He must have swallowed nearly all the bottleful by now, and if you want any evidence you've got to act quick!"

Heaving a sigh the manager pussy-footed down the aisle and touched the middle-aged man on the shoulder. He whispered in his ear.

"Hey?" cried the middle-aged man loudly, cupping a hand around his ear.

Everybody looked around. The perspiring manager conveyed the information that the middle-aged man was wanted outside. He obediently arose and clumped out after his captor. He followed until in the deserted corridor they met the others.

"Sorry," the manager said then. "But you can't drink here! Can't have the show ruined! Police, you know! Better give it up peaceably!" He indicated the guilty hip pocket.

The middle-aged man, somewhat pubbled, produced the nearly-empty bottle. It contained a colorless liquid.

"Gin!" said the irritated man sternly.

"It's that there Chinese rice wine!" declared the nervous usher.

"Doesn't smell," objected the worried manager who had uncorked it.

"Say, doggone you!" exploded the middle-aged man, reaching for the bottle without any ceremony. "Whatchu mean, anyhow? That's water, plain water! I wanted to see this show and the dentist told me this afternoon to keep ice on a congested jaw, and I couldn't carry a ton of ice to the theatre, could I? So I brought a bottle of cold water! Cold water, understand?"

"Well, can you beat that!" said the nervous usher.

"ALL'S FAIR IN LOVE" AT GLENDALE TODAY

A real diversion is promised in "All's Fair in Love," the new Goldwyn laugh production, which is announced for today and tomorrow at the Glendale theatre.

Natalie Marshall sets her heart upon Bobby Cameron, and determines he shall be her husband. Natalie encounters a serious difficulty in the alluring person of Vera Malecszka, who has had an affair with Bobby in Paris some years previously, and to whom he had presented an Egyptian bracelet engraved with the words, "From Bob to Vera."

Although Bobby has now lost his heart to Natalie, Vera perseveres in her efforts to win him back, but her plans are set to naught by the maneuvering of Natalie, who finds herself in his arms after a cleverly planned accident. Bobby blurts out a proposal and the wedding day is set.

Vera does not give up hope, however, and explodes a sensation when she sends Natalie a wedding gift—the bracelet with the amorous inscription, accompanied by a note which reads: "The Egyptians said this bracelet would bring good luck if worn by a woman possessed of the man she loves; misery if worn by another. So with all good wishes I am sending it to you." Her jealousy and suspicion thoroughly aroused, Natalie breaks with him one their wedding day, and refuses to recognize him as her husband. Then things begin to happen.

When any frying operation is finished remember to draw the pan of fat to one side of the stove at once, to prevent it from burning. When it is somewhat cooler strain the fat thru a sieve into the basin in which it is usually kept, so that it will be ready for use again.

EDUCATION NOT WITH RELIGION IS ARRAIGNED

Dr. Edgar P. Hill Tells Presbyterians It Is Menace

[By Associated Press]

INDIANAPOLIS, May 23.—Dr. Edgar P. Hill of New York today presented to the Presbyterian General Assembly his final annual report as general secretary of the Presbyterian General Board of Education, before the merging of that board into the Board of Christian Education. He charged that education estranged from religion was more of a menace than a blessing, and said that institutions of learning may become a frightful menace if, instead of sending forth men of earnest purpose and lofty ideals, they pour out into society leaders who have become equipped to destroy our social fabric and to hasten the day of moral chaos. Educational life must be Christianized, he said. "We must have institutions of higher learning that shall send forth trained and consecrated young men and women who shall lead our distressed and bewildered humanity toward a new and better day of peace and righteousness and universal brotherhood."

Dr. Hill told of the work for Christian leadership being done by the Presbyterian church in 49 state colleges and schools, besides the 57 Presbyterian colleges operated entirely by the church. During the past two years the Presbyterian colleges had added $10,000,000 to their assets. There were 35,000 Presbyterian students in state and independent universities in the United States. From its regular funds the board had aided 768 students, loaning them $109,000 the past year. Besides this, the Board's rotary loan fund had aided 157 students, lending them $20,860. The Bible was increasingly being made a study with endowed chairs. There are now 40 full time teachers of the Bible in Presbyterian colleges. The total Bible chair endowment was $1,186,000, and was being increased.

Surrendered Rum Runner in Shadow of Statue of Liberty

The hungry and deserted crew of the British rum runner Yankton surrendered to the United States authorities at New York and the vessel was anchored off the Statue of Liberty. The steamer formerly was the United States navy tender Yankton which accompanied Fighting Bob Evans on his cruise around the world in 1908. After long service with the Atlantic fleet and war-time service as a sub-chaser the Yankton was sold several years ago by the government. Subsequently it fell into the hands of rum runners and the once trim white navy boat is now a black uninspiring hulk.

TUESDAY CLUB RE-ELECTS ITS FORMER OFFICERS

of her committee, was in progress.

The sing closed with "Home, Sweet Home," and a little tribute to mothers by Mrs. Campbell who then called the business session to order and summoned Mrs. Lilian Dow, patriotic chairman to lead in the salute to the flag.

The retiring secretary, Mrs. John Dunn, read a list of applications for membership which had been approved and which totaled 35, or as many within 8 of last week.

The gift of beautiful plants for club porches from Mrs. R. R. Davies and Mr. Freeman Kelley was reported by Mrs. Campbell, who explained that Mr. Kelley had given his services in connection with the improvement of the club grounds and he was given a rising vote of thanks.

In appreciation of her services in connection with the building of the clubhouse, Mrs. Charles E. Hutchinson, junior past president, was presented with a life membership by Mrs. Campbell on behalf of the club. Though far from well, Mrs. Hutchinson came to the platform to receive the gift and make her acknowledgments, protesting her unworthiness for such an honor, but voicing her pleasure in the service she had given and exhorting the club to build spiritually as well as materially, and to enter into the life of the community for its betterment.

Then came the real struggle of the afternoon, over the amendment of the constitution to increase the fee for life membership from $100 to $250. After Mrs. Campbell and others had explained why a large list of life members is not desirable, there was no real opposition to the proposed amendment, but it seemed impossible to disentangle the question from the parliamentary red tape with which it had been wound by amendments to amendments which had been made at the last meeting. These were finally taken up in due order, voted down, and the original amendment adopted with but one or two dissenting votes. The club also adopted the following amendments:

To Section 3, Article VII, increasing the initiation fee from $10 to $25. In this connection, Mrs. Campbell indicated the intent of the club, if possible, to assume all expense in connection with the sections so they could be opened to all members without any extra charges.

Section 10, Article VII, granting complimentary memberships to members of over 70 years who have been members for the five preceding years.

Section 3, Article VIII, providing for forfeiture of membership if dues are unpaid 30 days following the sending of notice of delinquency subsequent to October 1 or February 1.

Section 4, Article VIII, providing for 50 per cent reduction of dues on account of a year's absence, subject to the approval of the board of directors. Sec. 2 of same article reduces guest cards of half-rate members to three.

Section 1 of Article X provides for club meetings every Tuesday. In this connection the president explained this had been the purpose of the board as soon as adequate quarters were available and that the plan contemplated section meetings in the forenoon, a mid-day luncheon at which business matters could be threshed out, followed by a program meeting in the afternoon. This, of course, not applying to the summer months of July, August and September.

A special rule that a certificate of membership in a recognized federated club may be accepted as one of the required indorsements of any stranger seeking admission to the club.

Respoding to the call of the president the members stood for a moment as a tribute to the memory of a member and past president who is no more, Mrs. Mary H. Gridley Braly.

Because her voice had been much taxed and was very tired, the president asked the privilege of deferring her annual address until the club luncheon and the reports of curators were also deferred until that time.

The recording secretary, Mrs. Cora Dunn, who is resigning to become secretary of the district federation under Mrs. Charles H. Toll, submitted an excellent and concise report, and was followed by Mrs. Plasterer, treasurer, with a really wonderful report upon the building and general funds of the club. The first named showed receipts of $93,117.36, expenditures of $71,659.83, and a balance on hand o $21,457.53. The balance in bank of the general fund was named a $2135.07.

Mrs. A. H. Montgomery, chairman of ways and means and first vice president, submitted an account of her chairmanship which will be found elsewhere and which showed earnings by club members during the past year of $5300, a brilliant record which was warmly applauded.

Mrs. Charles W. Houston, second vice president and chairman of auditorium chair sales, reported that 465 orphan chairs had been adopted, leaving 278 unappropriated blessings for whom she was seeking patrons. The literary section had taken 7, Mrs. Ella Richardson 13, and she hoped none would be left to pine unfriended. Five members thereupon subscribed, Mesdames Karr, Farrell, Higgins, Rittmyer and Case.

An excellent report was made by Mrs. H. E. Bartlett as chairman of house committee, who stated that the rentals of the clubhouse to date since March 15, had aggregated $422, with many engagements ahead and one regular tenant, "The Church of Divine Realization" which meets every Sunday morning.

As chairman of reciprocity, Mrs. J. T. Crampton reported the receipt and acceptance on behalf o the club of many invitations from other clubs.

Mrs. Frank Ayars reported as corresponding secretary the writing of 541 letters and the mailing of 2000 bulletins besides telephone work.

Mrs. John Robert White, chairman of publicity, told of publicity given to Los Angeles and local papers.

Mrs. A. A. Barton as secretary-hostess announced that her hours at the clubhouse when she would be subject to call would be from 9 to 11 a. m.

Mrs. Freeman Kelley, chairman of programs reported a balance of $100, left from the $600 allowed her for club programs, which she hoped could be used for the purchase of a proper screen for the stage for use in illustrated lectures.

Mrs. Lockwood reported her pleasure in the work of preparing club bulletins.

The indisposition of Mrs. A. M. Beamon, auditor, who is away in the mountains, was announced and the corresponding secretary requested to send her a letter of cheer from the club and of thanks to her good husband who had audited the club's books in her stead.

A report of fine work in civics on behalf of the club, was submitted by Mrs. Helen MacMullin.

The report of Mrs. W. W. Hamilton, chairman of calling committee was read by Mrs. A. H. Montgomery. It indicated that she had called upon 121 members during the year.

Mrs. E. U. Emery, chairman of courtesy committee staed that 698 guests had been entertained at the club during the year.

Mrs. W. E. Evans, chairman of the clubhouse furnishing committee told of the club's indebtedness to Mr. Lockwood for advice and assistance and the corresponding secretary was asked to send him a letter of thanks. Mrs. Evans explained briefly how the $5852 available for furnishings had been made to reach beyond expectations, supplemented as it was by gifts, and how it was augmented by the $1500 pledged by non-section mmebers organized under Mrs. A. H. Montgomery.

Another good report of money earned by club members was made by Mrs. Colin Cable, chairman of hospitality, which showed that since January her committee had earned at the Society Circus and in food sales $305.90, besides contributing to the club furnishings three punch bowls and six dozen glasses, the money for which was raised by an assessment of each committee member. This good record received warm applause.

Mrs. Eugene Gilliland, chairman of local relief, reported many calls made upon the needy and distributions of food and clothing, besides gifts to the clubhouse, by the committee.

The good report of Mrs. Ralph Meeker, chairman of membership, was read by Mrs. Charles Houston.

Mrs. Lilian Dow reported as patriotic chairman and also told of gifts of linen to the clubhouse, representing a value of $64 made by her committee.

Mrs. J. B. McClellan, as chairman of remembrance, reported 20 letters sent to those who were ill or indisposed, 16 to those into whose families death had entered, and sent floral tributes for five members who have died within the year.

Mrs. Mabel Hunter reported the work of the committee on philanthropy, showing how $30 had been distributed to six philanthropies in which the club is interested, telling also of the gifts her committee has made to the club.

Mrs. A. M. Hunt, federation secretary, being unable to be present, the corresponding secretary was asked to send her a letter of appreciation.

Three sections of the Tuesday Afternoon club have section meetings to come as follows:

Music section, Friday, May 25, in the club auditorium at 2:30, for a program of Spanish music.

Literary section, annual luncheon, June 5 at the Harriet Mae Tea room at 1 p. m., reservations to be made through Mrs. John Sargent.

Maids and Young Matrons' section, June 5 at 2 p. m., in clubhouse tea room, Mrs. Paul Webb, hostess. Program to include a talk on art in the home by H. C. Schwartz.

Lefty Grimm, Pirates' Slugger, Who Hit in 25 Straight Games

Grimm has been setting the National league afire with his hitting. He connected safely with the ball in twenty-five consecutive games while Pittsburgh was playing the Giants in New York. At that time his record was eighty-nine times at bat, twenty-four runs and thirty-seven hits, for an average of .416.

MONTROSE'S FIRST BIG BUILDING NEARS FINISH

Reinhard's Business Block Is Promising Addition to Town

The store building of C. J. Reinhard on Honolulu avenue, near Montrose avenue, Montrose, is nearing completion and besides being the first two-story business building in this fast growing town, promises to be one of the most attractive buildings. The first floor will be occupied by the Reinhard Grocery company, the Leach meat market and a green vegetable stand. The second floor has been leased by Dr. E. Jones of Mesa Crest for a dentist's office, and Dr. Luella Turner, an osteopath.

A verger was doing some decorations in church when the minister happened to call. Seeing some tacks on the floor of the pulpit, he said:

"Don't leave those tacks lying about, John. What would happen if I stepped on one next Sunday in the middle of the sermon?"

"Well," said John, "the tack would be one point you wouldn't linger on, anyway."

WEBB'S REMOVAL SALE EXCEEDS EXPECTATION

In Preparation for Change to New Location, Company Is Gratified With Results

It was a foregone conclusion that the removal sale of the H. S. Webb company, the first to establish a department store in Glendale, would be a success, but the returns of Tuesday, the opening day, far exceeded expectations. It was in charge of D. L. Ludwig, the advertising manager of the company, who has become well known in Glendale, and the success is attributed to the good name and established reputation of the store for goods of a high quality ,which inspired public confidence, and also in no small part to the judicious advertising done by Mr. Ludwig in the Glendale Press, which reaches a very large group of possible patrons.

The sale is in preparation for removal to the beautiful new, permanent home of the store on North Brand, near Wilson avenue, which will be announced in the near future.

H. S. Webb who came to Glendale from the east, soon recognized the handwriting on the wall which assured the destiny of this city among the stars of southern California municipalities. He established his residence here, identified himself with civic and other organizations, began investing in real estate, and became one of the most ardent boosters Glendale has had.

The establishment of his store in the fine location he has chosen in a home of its own, is the best guarantee he could give of his faith in the city of his adoption.

The new store will add many departments for the convenience and comfort of Glendale patrons, and will carry an increased stock of the high class merchandise which has made its reputation in the past and given it a secure place in the confidence of buyers. It will be a distinct asset to the city and one which will materially increase property values.

The removal sale will continue until Saturday night of the present week and will undoubtedly make new records under the able supervision of Mr. Ludwig.

BUYING POWER OF CITY TO SHOW IN MONDAY'S TRADING

plan is to be carried out as a continual exposition of values to be found in Glendale, and will show the difference in the scale of present prices, and those before the tremendous growth which has actuated this city for the past few years was evident.

"There is no doubt in my mind that this concentrated effort on the part of Glendale merchants is going to cause a general awakening among the buyers in this vicinity," stated Frank Echols of the Roberts & Echols Pharmacy, Brand and Broadway.

"Hitherto, it has been the merchant's own fault if he has failed to get the trade. First the people must know of the values offered, and second, the merchants must work together for the better business interests of Glendale."

"We want the home owners of Glendale to know the Occidental gas range, because it is a saver of both time and money, with its fuel saving device," said F. E. Elwood, proprietor of the Elwood Gas Appliance Company, of 227 East Broadway. "And that is why we are aligning ourselves with this move to concentrate our efforts and make Monday the best day of the week instead of the poorest."

"Give value; that is the secret of bringing the shopper within your door," says J. Fisher, of the Fisher Variety Store, 212 East Broadway, "and that is the aim of this movement. It is a great thing for Glendale."

"I am hearily in favor of this plan," said Wm. F. Trice, proprietor of the Trice Furniture store at 118 West Broadway. "It is something to which every merchant has been looking. A means of helping one's self, and at the same time helping the other fellow. This concerted advertising is certain to bring beneficial results."

"Glendale has attractive stores, and cheerful and helpful employees are waiting to serve the people," said Carl Anderson of the Anderson Dry Goods Store, 516 East Broadway. "Many people, after once visiting the stores, will feel inclined to call again. It's all in getting the habit."

L. A. MERCHANT WAS HEAVILY INSURED

Arthur Letts, Who Died Friday, Was Exponent of Policy

Arthur Letts, the owner of the Broadway Department store, who passed away Friday, May 18, was one of California's leading exponents of business life insurance carrying politicies at the time of his death to the amount of nearly two million dollars.

The most remarkable facts surrounding the life of Mr. Letts were his progressive ideas in advertising and advance business methods.

His business associates, as well as his many admirers came to accept Mr. Letts' business principles as sound, efficient and most practical.

With the aid of business life insurance, Mr. Letts fully protected his business investments before and after his death.

In bringing to light the tremendous business insurance carried by Mr. Letts, Mr. Danford M. Baker, Jr., manager of the Business Insurance Service, 621 Pacific Mutual building, Los Angeles, stressed the fact that the Pacific Mutual Life Insurance company, being the first to learn of Mr. Letts' passing away, paid $100,000, the amount of insurance carried with his company, within six hours after his death, thereby demonstrating the practicability of business insurance.

LITTLE TALKS ON THRIFT

By S. W. STRAUS,

President American Society for Thrift.

IT IS unfortunate that many persons look on thrift merely as a rather miserly attitude toward life.

S. W. STRAUS

It is deplorable that this false and harmful conception of thrift is often given encouragement by those who mean well but who are unaware of the ill-effects of such teachings.

It is well to bear these thoughts in mind, particularly at this time when one hears occasional references to a "buyers strike."

Ruskin's famous analysis of economy is apropos. "Economy no more means saving money," he wrote, "than it means spending money; it means administration of a house; its stewardship; spending or saving, whether money or time, or anything else, to the best possible advantage."

This is advice that can well be taken at this time. Economy is always advisable, but only harmful effects can result from a system of economy that merges into miserliness.

The question of correct spending as well as correct saving is one of far-reaching importance because, while the elimination of waste and extravagance are always desirable, the general cutting down of legitimate expenditures to the point where the general business of the country would be adversely affected, the wheels of industry stopped and unemployment precipitated, would most assuredly be a false example of thrift.

Ruskin's analysis correctly places as much importance on correct spending as on correct saving. Success and progress are not the results of penurious practices.

True thrift is progress. Hence those who are truly thrifty keep business on the go because they spend wisely as well as save carefully. The money which comes into their hands does not lie dormant; neither does it go for purposes that are not upbuilding.

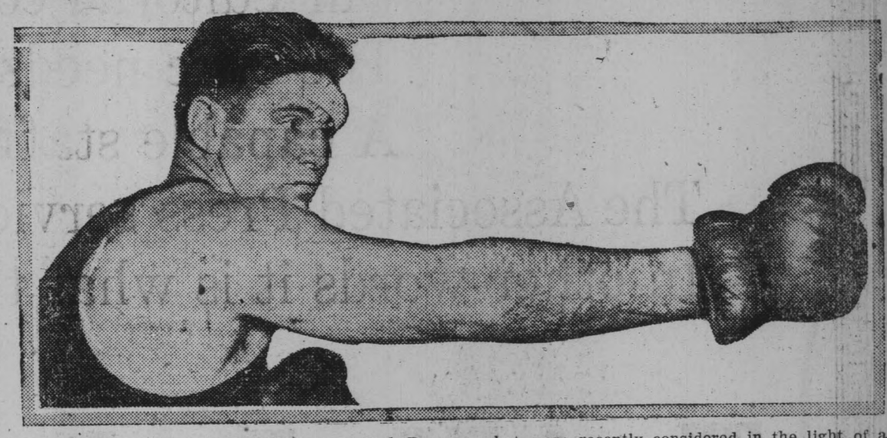
IZZY AND MOE UP TO THEIR OLD TRICKS

FIRPO'S POWERFUL ARM THAT CHOPPED UP VETERAN BILL BRENNAN



Bill Brennan, formerly a challenger of Jack Dempsey, but more recently considered in the light of a trial horse, lost in the twelfth round to Luis Angel Firpo, the husky Argentine heavyweight, in a bout at Madison Square Garden. Firpo is very green, but he is very powerful. Brennan's ring lore was offset by Firpo's strength, although the South American failed to deliver more than a couple of straight wallops.

Colonel Muggs was playing his usual eighteen holes before lunch, but was a long way below his usual standard, making many bad shots.

In consequence of this his temper, never one of the best, became somewhat ruffled, and his anger increased when he noticed that a laborer was following from hole to hole. At last the colonel could stand it no longer.

"What the —— are you looking at?" he burst out.

"Looking, sir?" replied the laborer. "I ain't looking; I'm listening."

The lady of the house had often asked her cook what her husband did, and the cook always replied that he was connected with a penitentiary in the capacity of a trustee. This seemed somewhat strange to the good lady, and one day she said as much to her husband. He thought perhaps he could get at the facts, so the cook was called in.

"Mirandy, you say your husband is a trustee in the penitentiary?"

"Yes, boss," she replied promptly.

"Don't you mean a trusty?" the boss persisted.

"Dat's it."

NEWS AND VIEWS OF BURBANK AND ITS ENVIRONS

WIDENING AND PAVING AND LIGHTING OF FOURTH STREET MAY BE 1923 ACHIEVEMENT

City Trustees Vote to Ask City Engineer to Establish a 60-foot Street Grade; Pacific Electric Company Agrees to Run at 15 Miles in Town

The Burbank city trustees voted to ask City Engineer F. C. Miller to establish a grade for a sixty-foot street with a two foot parkway on the sides at the meeting Tuesday night.

Fourth street, long an eyesore to Burbank people contemplating the city beautiful, because of its unkept appearance is to discard its wornout playtime overalls for a better suit. The business suit will come eventually, it is thought, when the town grows older.

With paving and ornamental lights and a wide street, Burbank will show the town's development. While it is too late now for Fourth street to be an ideally wide street with double car lines, parking in the center of the thoroughfare, it can be vastly improved upon, the city trustees believe.

William Coryell appeared before the council with a petition signed by property owners along Fourth street asking for the widening and paving of Fourth street. The council then asked the city engineer to establish the grade.

A seventy foot street is apparently the maximum width that Fourth street ever can attain. but a seventy foot street with ornamental lights and paving will make Burbank far more attractive than it is now with weeds, underbrush and a narrow dirt road along the car line. Also it will help in calling attention to the fact that the electric car lines are running and thus be one more safeguard against fatal accidents.

A sixty foot street with two feet of parkway on each side will be an improvement and every patriotic citizen in the town welcomes this news.

This widening and paving of Fourth street has been a cherished hope for some time among civic bodies so for that reason the action of the city trustees concerning Fourth street was the most important bit of work transacted at the regular weekly business session.

Mr. Gilbert, Mr. White and another Pacific Electric representative appeared before the council to discuss the matter of regulating the speed of the cars and to consider accident preventions. It was decided that a speed regulation limiting the cars to fifteen miles an hour for seven or eight blocks could not work a hardship on anyone, and will undoubtedly save lives.

"If a car is going twenty miles an hour and wants to stop, how far will it travel after the brakes are on?" was asked the representative of the line. He could not give the figures, so Trustee Nielsen told him it would be 240 feet.

Since an automobile can stop itself in much less distance and yet it is limited to 15 miles an hour in a well populated part of the city as was pointed out by the trustees, the Pacific Electric men agreed that it was only reasonable to ask them to slow down to 15 miles an hour at least, for the short distance from the end of the car line to the city limits, a matter of less than a mile.

While an ordinance to this effect was not passed it will be recorded in the minutes of the city clerk, F. S. Webster, that the company agreed to such a speed, so it will be just as effective for reference.

The representative objected to putting in a wig-wag signal. He stated that they cost more than $700. The company will put up signs at every crossing. With the widening, paving and ornamental light fixtures these two precautions of the company would seem to help in eliminating accidents.

Bids for the work on Grismer avenue were opened. George Simpson and W. J. Kern were the only contractors submitting bids. The bids were given to City Engineer Miller for checking and reporting.

Cornwell and Henderson, being the lowest bidders for Sixth street and Eighth street improvements, were given the contract.

The council voted to install six additional fire plugs which the city engineer requested.

The resignation of Morris Spazier from the city planning commission was accepted.

TOWN LEARNS HOMER BURNED BOSTON BEANS

"Fire! Fire!" was the call that made the city hall employes laugh, Tuesday. "I'll call Homer Davis and tell him," said Mrs. Chester Phelps. Thereupon she called the fire chief and said, "Homer, your potatoes are burning," but Homer said, "No, it's the beans."

That's the disadvantage of living in the public eye, thought Homer, they even know when your beans are burned. But he's a good cook, City Clerk Webster maintains, for he fixed those beans up so they tasted all the better for being burned.

BOY SCOUTS TAKE EVENING HIKE

Dr. Wilson Guides Scouts Over Mountain Trails

Dr. Wilson was guardian and guide for 12 Boy Scouts who wanted a night hike. They left the boulevard at 7:30 o'clock and climbed to the second ridge up Sunset canyon. The boys had a chart of the stars and studied astronomy for a short time. They located Saturn, the Evening Star, and all the stars which are especially prominent at this time.

The boys dropped down into Deer canyon, finding the trail by touch. They were not allowed to use flash lights. They enjoyed the novel experience of testing out their powers and are hoping to go again soon.

The boys who went were Stewart Walcott, Donald Catlin, James Hare, Martin Dossen, Harold Owen, Donald Offill, Roger Peterson, Francis Koppes, Kenneth Murry, Ford Stewart, William Gottsdanker, Daniel Barnhart and "Buddy" the German police doy, mascot of the troop.

Ten Modern Woodmen are out to beat ten other Modern Woodmen in obtaining old Woodmen members for the Burbank lodge. George Wood and L. J. Campbell will be the captains. This was decided at the business meeting of the lodge Monday evening.

The contest will close June 4 and the losers will give a smoker. The Royal Neighbors may help them in the pursuit for they are to help the lodge give a dance at the I. O. O. F. hall Monday.

It was the witching hour when all was hushed and dark. Suddenly the midnight stillness was broken hy a crash from upstairs. "G-g-g-good Lord, what was that, dud-dud-darling?" exclaimed the timid young Adonis. "Merely father dropping a hint," she replied snuggling closer.

BOYS AND MEN CONFER IN STYLE

Banquet for Fathers and Sons Is Event of the Year

About three hundred men and boys sang and ate and talked to the maximum capacity Tuesday evening at the fourth annual Y. M. C. A. fathers and sons' banquet, held at the Methodist church dining hall.

The hall was gay with blue and white colors. Mashed potatoes, Swiss steak, ice cream and cake were the noticeable items to the boys. Rousing cheers, songs and shouts added enjoyment to the evening. Rev. Thomas Allen offered the invocation.

Carl Burnette, as toastmaster of the evening introduced the speakers of the evening. Dr. Merle Smith of Pasadena gave a very helpful address which held the closest attention of everyone present. Coach Ogburn was program chairman.

Officers Find Sixty Gallons of Wine

Mike Castalano, who owns a fruit stand on West San Fernando boulevard, near the Southern Pacific railroad, was selling something besides fruit at his stand, it was asserted. Burbank police officers investigated and found 60 gallons of wine on the premises.

For that reason Mike will step up for a hearing before Judge Crawford at 10 o'clock Thursday morning.

"The letter is too heavy," said the postoffice clerk. "You'll have to put more postage on it—say a couple of cents or so."

"Well," said the amusing man, "I don't mind the expense, but I don't see how another stamp will make the letter any lighter."

PLAN GOOD C. OF C. DINNER HOUR

Arrangements Have Been Made for L. A. Speaker

The Burbank chamber of commerce has secured Charles Bayer of Los Angeles as the speaker for the dinner Thursday evening at the Presbyterian church. Mr. Bayer is in charge of the organization service of chamber of commerce work. He is a very entertaining and stimulating lecturer.

The high school orchestra will furnish several numbers. A large attendance of townspeople is expected.

KIWANIS CLUB BID FAREWELL TO CHURCH

Kiwanis club members nearly a hundred per cent strong accompanied Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Church to the train at the Santa Fe station in Los Angeles this morning as the delegates left for the international convention at Atlanta, Georgia.

Music and songs and speeches gave the happy banker and his wife a pleasant farewell from Burbank. The meeting will begin when 6000 other Kiwanians and their wives assemble at Atlanta Monday. All kinds of varied discussion, lectures and other entertainments are scheduled for the big session.

BURBANK TO HAVE SPACE AT PARK

Will Advertise Burbank Products at Exposition

The Burbank Realty board and the Burbank Ad club have voted to do the first outside advertising of Burbank by renting a 12x15 foot space during the Monroe Doctrine Centennial exposition.

A booth, displaying Burbank products, will be arranged. R. W. Colburn, J. D. Radcliff and W. P. Coffman arranged for the booth Tuesday. They have secured the space, facing the court of honor, for $360 a month.

No Jury, No Lawyer Means Case Continued

The question of whether to pay rent or a lawyer's fee is being considered by a Burbank couple. They had decided that rather than pay rent which they thought they did not owe, they would let the owner of the place, Gunnison, sue for it.

They came to court Tuesday morning expecting to find a lawyer and a jury but as this is not furnished by the Burbank police court and they did not furnish the lawyer the case was ordered continued. Perhaps it will be cheaper to pay the twenty dollars or perhaps it will be cheaper to let the matter drop, being thus undecided the case is ordered continued.

WE WOMEN

FLIVVERS VS. HUSBANDS

A man recently traded his wife for a flivver. Much publicity has been given the transaction. Newspaper editors will have their little joke. Most of them carried the story on the first pages of their papers. On the editorial pages they had a lot of fun comparing wives with flivvers. The association of ideas presented an opportunity which they could not shut their eyes to.

But it seems to me they did not go quite far enough in their consideration of the transaction. The original offer carried with it a question, which they overlooked. Of course they were only fooling but they would have had more fun, I think, if they had also used the flivver as a means of measuring the values of good husbands.

Just how much is a good husband worth?

All of my editorial friends concede the value of the flivver. We cannot argue with them on this point. There are many good flivvers and many good husbands. We know how much a good flivver is worth but we have no accepted value of a good husband.

I cannot say there are more good flivvers than there are good husbands because I have no authoritative figures. I am willing to give the devil and Lizzie their due. But what I want to know is just how much is a good husband worth and how we are to determine his value. Shall we use flivvers as a standard of measurement or good books, turnips, diamonds or women?

We must eliminate flivvers because to use them would be unfair to some husbands. Flivvers will not last as long as a good husband. At the same time it would be unfair to compare some husbands with good flivvers.

Good books, judged by the standards of Shakespeare and the Bible, are scarce. Turnips are more plentiful. There are, I suppose, more turnips than there are good husbands. We must eliminate turnips as a measure of value. Diamonds are rare gems and valuable on that account. Good husbands are also valuable but they are not rare. We must eliminate diamonds.

Just one standard remains—women. Are good husbands as valuable and plentiful as good wives? I should say they are six of one and half dozen of the other.

Shakespeare says:

"For it so falls out
That what we have we prize not to the worth
Whiles we enjoy it, but being lack'd and lost
Why, then we rack the value; then we find
The virtue that possession would not show us
Whiles it was ours."

After the comedian had been on the stage about twenty minutes, and regaled the audience with stale jokes and even staler puns, the onlookers began to get restive.

Just as their patience was at the vanishing point he stepped to the footlights and said:

"Ladies and gentlemen, I am about to show you one of the most astounding feats of sleight of hand. Has any gentleman in the audience an egg in his pocket?"

Immediately a voice from the gallery replied:

"If I'd known what kind of a show this was goin' to be, you'd ha' got one long before now!"

Curing your Golf Troubles

By Jim Barnes

"Dear Mr. Barnes:

Will you please tell me the evils of shooting cross-handed? I use the interlocking grip, which brings both wrists fairly close together. I have tried the regular way of gripping for two months at a time, but can get only poor results. I have no trouble in placing my iron-shots and on my drives get around 215 yards, sometimes a good deal more. Every one tells me I will do better by changing, but I can't see it. My game suits me. Would you change?

J. A. S."

Answer:

My advice is that you change to the conventional method, if you expect to make any progress at the game. You may be getting fair results, but you are doing so in spite of a handicap. I have seen several players to whom this method of gripping appeared to come natural, but I have never seen a good golfer who gripped cross-handed.

You are violating several very excellent precepts, or at least are making it much harder to follow them. One is that of making the left hand do most of the work of taking the club back by, in a way, pushing it back, low along the ground, at the start. No doubt you will find that you are starting the club back outside the line of flight, whereas it should swing back inside that line. You are also making it much harder to keep the left arm as nearly straight as it can be, which is another pretty good thing to keep in mind.

Again with your hands crossed, it is impossible for the left to act as a kind of fulcrum for the right hand in applying extra punch in the stroke when the clubhead comes against the ball, as it properly should. It is well-directed wrist action at this stage that gives extra distance. Normally the right hand delivers most of the hitting power; but it is next to impossible for it to function properly with a cross-hand grip. These are just a few of the more important points. Others might be mentioned, but I believe these should be sufficient to make out the case.

SENATOR O. HOWE DUMM SEES ANOTHER WAR COMING

Next Great Conflict May Be Started by America Because Foreign Skipper Docked with Bottle of Beer and a Recipe, He Fears—Thinks England Would Be Just as Justified in Barring Ascot Ties and Colored Vests

My Dear Dummer:—There is another big war coming as sure as you're a cracked doorknob. The last one was fought to make the world safe for democracy, but the next one will be fought to make the seas safe for case goods. England and France are all het up over the U. S. Supreme Court ruling that no vessels may enter or leave any American port with as much as a half-pint aboard. Notes are being exchanged, and I wouldn't be a bit surprised to see very serious international complications.

England claims the enforcement of the ruling will be a violation of the Haig & Haig Agreement and the Dewar Doctrine. France says any attempt by the United States to enforce the decision will be a direct violation of the Treaty of Moet and Chandon and the Poll Rogent decision. (See Vermouth Conference, 1887). Personally, I don't see why any foreign ship should want to land at any American port with liquor, as there are always plenty of bootleggers at the pier to supply new arrivals with all they can drink.

I suppose the government just feels it ought to protect itself against foreign competition. We are doing a big business selling liquor to cash customers on American soil and we don't like to see any foreign power snatching away some of our best customers. If France or England would open bootlegging establishments on land it wouldn't be so sad, but taking some of our leading drinkers out of the country for a couple of weeks at a time is unfair.

* * *

I can't see, though, how America has any more right to tell England that it can't have any liquor on any ship entering this country than England has to issue an order making all American ships throw overboard all colored vests, headcheeses, playing cards, corn-removers, Ascot ties, tortoise-shell glasses, and soda crackers.

* * *

It would be just as fair and logical for the Chinese government to insist that all American skippers toss overboard all passengers with whiskers just because the Chinese favor compulsory shaving. I can't see why the fact that most citizens of Japan are vegetarians should give Japan the right to order every ship entering the Japanese 3-mile limit to throw overboard all meat and all meat-eaters.

* * *

As I said before, I wouldn't be surprised to see the next war fought over the fact that some French skipper passed an American revenue cutter and refused to threw the skipper his half-pint flask when signalled. It's even possible a world conflagration might be started because a Dutch sailing master tied up his ship at a New York dock and went ashore with a bottle of beer and a recipe under his coat.

* * *

The main trouble would be, I'm afraid, getting young men to enlist on the hard and soft drink question. It would be no great satisfaction for a hero to give up his life in a stirring naval engagement fought to make a half-stewed foreign skipper pour six quarts of Scotch into the Atlantic ocean or drink it himself.

* * *

However, I may be wrong. I shall remain intensely patriotic, however, and if this country goes to war and needs fighting men I shall do my duty by seeing that you enlist. My only regret is that you have but one life for me to give for our country.

Love and all,
O. HOWE DUMM.

Truths in Epigram

Hatred is a settled anger. —Cicero.

Ease and speed in doing a thing do not give the work lasting solidity or exactness of beauty.—Plutarch.

The heart knoweth his own bitterness: and a stranger does not intermeddle with his joy.—Proverbs.

BONAR LAW UNDER SENTENCE

If reports from London are correct, Bonar Law is the victim of cancer. The malady has seized upon his throat. Judged by all precedent this means that he is doomed. Science may do something to lessen his suffering, but beyond this point, it is helpless. Cancer seems to be one disease that baffles skill. Not only does it persist, but it shows a steady increase. Its presence is accounted for by many contradictory theories. Out of the mass of explanations the only fact to be drawn with certainty is that research has not taken the most astute investigator beyond the stage of conjecture.

Memory goes easily back to the day when consumption was regarded as incurable; when an outbreak of typhoid was inexplicable, and once appearing in a community, was bound to run its course, taking heavy toll. Then scarlet fever or diphtheria reaped ghastly harvests, virtually unchecked. The causes of all these visitations have been found, and methods devised for their effective treatment. Not one of them now has power to create panic. It is seldom that any becomes epidemic. Years ago it was a regular thing for the people of the north to raise funds for the yellow fever sufferers of the south. All this has changed, but cancer has grown more terrifying. Its progress is implacable, mysterious, and while it engages the attention of the most advanced medical scientists, they seem helpless as yet.

Doubtless the plague will be conquered ultimately. The men who have devoted their lives to study of it, will triumph, as they have triumphed over other seemingly unbeatable enemies of health. It is but honest to say that the way to victory is not yet clear. It may be opened at any time by sudden finding of long-hidden secrets. At least the men who seek to combat it, have high hopes, and the stimulation of knowing that other problems that baffled for a long time, were solved at last.

A COMMUNITY STRICKEN

The tragic deaths of seventy-five people in a country school house of South Carolina stands unique among disasters of the sort. In crowded cities, in ships that sail the seas, such massed fatalities, always horrifying, do not come with the added shock of surprise. In this instance, the people had gathered to witness an exhibition by pupils. There had been not even a remote thought of danger. The explosion of a lamp, throwing flames in every direction, induced panic. The rush of people caused the breaking of narrow stairs, and members of the fleeing mob trampled each other to death. There is no quality of reason left when panic seizes control. Doubtless had the members of the audience kept their heads, many more could have escaped. Under such circumstances people do not keep their heads. With the explosion of the lamp the eventuation was inevitable.

There is complete futility in seeking to draw a lesson from the disaster. People in the face of danger ought not to give way to the domination of fear, but they do, and doubtless they will. In a community still lighted by kerosene lamps, the occasional explosion of one of the appliances may occur. Buildings should not be flimsily constructed, but they are. A stairway should be strong enough to sustain any weight of humanity possible to crowd upon it, but no such reform is likely.

The whole country has been stirred by a catastrophe that has brought unspeakable sorrow to a region of which many never before had heard. There is mourning in every household there, and from some households all life has been taken and destroyed. Pitiful beyond words, the situation makes poignant appeal to human sympathy.

FINE IN THEORY

Wisconsin has repealed the eugenics law. This was no reflection on the principle. It merely acknowledged that the law could not be enforced, and failing of its object, would better be off the books.

According to this bit of advanced legislation a marriage license was not to be issued unless the applicants had demonstrated physical and mental fitness for the proposed relationship. This involved freedom from disease, or from any taint likely to be transmitted. Blushing young men and women, too modest to submit to the test, took the method of crossing the state line, getting married there, and when they returned the marriage had to be recognized as valid. Thus the law was not accomplishing any part of its purpose.

Intimations have been made that repeal was due to objections to having the wedding fees go to rank outsiders, but these rest on a sordid view. When a law cannot be made effective, it is idle to keep up any pretense about it. In this case the law not only was ineffective, but the authorities were helpless.

It would be fine, of course, if the unfit could be induced to refrain from matrimony. Up to the present, restrictions apply mostly to the idiot class, and sometimes even one not far from this class happens to meet a kindred soul and delude watchful society. So is laid the foundation for another family of morons. Determination of fitness for marriage still rests with the individual. Frequently the individual is mistaken. The error is a sad one, but means of prevention seem not to have been devised.

DRAWING THE LINE

Men in official position are said to have received threats of violence from individuals loosely to be classified as "reds." These threats strangely enough, are anonymous. Under the constitution, where such persons rush for refuge, there is permitted freedom of speech and press. If a man may speak such words as please him, surely he has the right to write them. Hence, by their own arguments, the reds violate no constitutional privilege when they threaten to kill. Being thus secure in the protection afforded by the fundamental law of the land, there is no logical reason why they should withhold their names. If they are not careful, somebody will charge them with inconsistency.

It is deemed unlikely that a threat of this character will be put into effect. The conduct of the protesting malcontent is akin to that of the barking dog, that is so busy barking as to have no time for biting. However, the threat does betray a state of mind such as is ill calculated to promote the public good.

The right to strike seldom is denied. That is to say, the man who doesn't like his job has the legal opportunity generally, to quit it and go away. Often a strike that is for just reasons, has the full sympathy of the public. The strike that is ordered, not for the purpose of bettering conditions, but of stirring up turmoil, and giving the agitator an excuse for agitating, never has sympathy. Such is a strike that advocates direct action on its own behalf, and resents with torch and bomb, or idle threat, the direct action that society has to take in self-protection, to preserve its industries, and to preserve to toilers a chance to earn wages. As a strike of this sort, the public draws the line.

COME AND JOIN US

By ESTELLE LAWTON LINDSEY

Most people that one meets nowadays are tired, more, they are weary, heavy eyed and apathetic.

What is it all about? Most of us do less work than we did ten years ago; chiefly because traffic congestion and delays of various kinds reduce efficiency. Just the same we are more tired as the years speed. The added years do not account for the condition. Most of us are merely worn out joining things or finding out something about the numerous organizations, proposed organizations and movements that daily, almost hourly solicit our aid. The mails bulge notices, the telephone rouses the tardy and calls him to come out and hear Mr. What-Do-You-Call-Him talk on how to organize to get money out of the rich to be spent on making the poor do something that the folks who are getting up the organization think would benefit the poor.

Estelle Lawton Lindsey

As the poor prefer respite from interference to aid in some direction the trend of which they do not understand, somebody else has to organize a committee to call on the poor and interest them.

When they are interested there must be meetings to teach them and folks to induce them to attend the meetings.

Meetings are always a temptation to folks seeking audiences, and presently it is necessary to organize a committee to keep out meddlers and another to round up speakers to expose the alleged or real purposes of the meddlers.

You can't step outside your door without being solicited to join something, contribute to some cause, fight some "menace," and everybody who solicits you argues with you. Say, if you will, that you are too busy to take part in uplift movements. Immediately the person who approached you will launch into a lecture explaining how you can get time, why you should take time and the benefits to be derived from taxing your strength and sacrificing your rest to do what he wants done.

If you are stubborn, prepare to listen to a facetious chat on your claim of continuous and pressing affairs, or worse still a lecture on your duty to humanity.

Should you be foolish enough to suggest that your first duty to humanity is to keep well and do your work, you will find that you have on hand an enthusiastic advocate of some healing cult, and the chances are that he will finish by asking you to call on his doctor or try his favorite nerve sedative.

This morning I threw out four waste baskets full of junk, chiefly notices, begging letters, tickets that I had been asked to sell—or pay for, if I preferred. During the morning I listened to half a dozen agents whooping up trade for as many infant publications, declined to join a few new born co-operative concerns of one kind or another, and between times tried to do my work.

I am tired out, not with work but with fighting off organizers, solicitors and enthusiasts who stood between me and my work.

No wonder we are tired; we are so busy saving everybody from everything and worrying the lives out of the chaps who will ultimately finance something to get rid of somebody that we are in a fair way to die of exhaustion before we get organized far enough to assemble the victims we mean to benefit.

THE RIGHT WORD

By W. CURTIS NICHOLSON

WHEN "I" SELECTS "SHOULD" OR "WOULD"
(Find the error in this article)

Are you sometimes puzzled as to whether you should use should or would with the pronoun "I"?

Would is the past tense of the verb will; should the past tense of shall.

When one says "I would do it if I were you," a potential decision is expressed. But when one says "I should like to go," the word should expresses only future time, while like conveys the idea of desire.

Just remember that will and would, when they are used in connection with the pronoun "I", are not future tenses; they are symbols of determination, decision, promise, threat, or consent. So do not associate either one of these ideas with another idea that is identical or that produces an absurdity.

For example, no one is anxious to drown. Consequently, it is incorrect to say "If you forced me to go out on that stormy lake I would drown." The right word is should.

Again, the words want, like, appreciate, desire, and many others of like character, express the idea of desire; but so does "I would." Therefore, it is correct to say "I should like"; "I should appreciate"; "I should want."

The foregoing discussion applies also to "we would" and "we should."

Yesterday's Error

Wrong: Now let her rip and use will and shall correctly.

Right: Now go ahead and use will and shall correctly.

Vocabulary

A sudarium is a handkerchief of cloth for drying or removing perspiration. Specifically, it was the napkin about the head of Christ in the tomb. The a in sudarium is pronounced as e in prey.

Queries

W. O'N.: "Is unfortunate or unfortunately the right word in the following sentence: 'Unfortunate (unfortunately?) for him, however, the company is without funds'?"

Answer: The right word is unfortunately.

THE LISTENING POST

By James W. Foley

Yesterday is a memory.
Tomorrow is a promise.
One day only is ours.
That is today.

JAMES W. FOLEY

The Now and the Here.

And even as we write, the present moment is dying into yesterday.

And another present moment is come.

Fortunately in the matter of writing, we can go back and change.

We may cross out and interline and erase.

For what is being written is not yet given to the public.

The reading public.

But after it is given to the public, not a line or word can be changed.

It must stand as written and printed.

So with life.

As we are revolving and declaring and promising we may change our minds.

We may cross out and erase and interline.

But when we have given a deed to the world, it must stand as given.

Unchangeable.

Fixed and immovable.

* * *

The general of the army may plan and wonder and think and ponder.

He may make a change in his plans up to the time he gives the order for battle.

Send this division here and this one there.

And after the army is in motion and the battle on, he must stand or fall by the commands he has given.

* * *

A deed done in your life is done.

It is a fact accomplished, as they say.

It cannot be undone.

It cannot be altered or changed.

There it stands as a fixed and unalterable fact.

Not to be changed.

Nothing to be erased or wiped out.

* * *

As Omar says:

The moving finger writes and having writ
Moves on nor all thy piety or wit
Shall lure it back to cancel half a line,
Or with thy tears wash out a word of it.

But of course Omar refers to the writing of the moving finger as a deed done.

A day lived.

Something definitely put into the limbo of things past.

* * *

So there are two places where we may achieve.

The present.

The future.

The present is a workshop.

The future is a dream.

The past is merely a storehouse.

A place where is the record of things done.

* * *

So there are two things we may work at.

We may do in the present.

In Today and Now and Here.

And we may dream of the future.

Tomorrow.

But nothing can be changed of the past.

Nothing taken out of it.

Nothing erased or interlined or wiped out.

* * *

So when we would "live the past over" remember that that is idle wishing.

Hollow regretting.

Useless and vain bewailing.

But we may live the present now.

And we may dream the future and live it when it becomes the present.

Songs of the Poets

Wing Tee Wee—By J. P. Denison

Oh Wing Tee Wee
Was a sweet Chinee,
And she lived in the town of Tac.
Her eyes were blue,
And her curling cue
Hung dangling down her back
And she fell in love with gay Win Sil
When he wrote his love on a laundry bill.

And oh, Tim Told
Was a pirate bold,
And he sailed in a Chinese junk.
And he loved, ah me!
Sweet Wing Tee Wee
But his valiant heart had sunk;
So he drowned his blues in fickle fizz,
And vowed the maid would yet be his.

So bold Tim Told
Showed all his gold
To the maid in the town of Tac,
And sweet Wing Wee
Eloped to sea,
And never more came back;
For in far Chinee the maids are fair,
And the maids are false, as everywhere.

RESOURCES OF STRENGTH

By DR. FRANK CRANE

CAPT. J. A. HADFIELD of the Neurological War Hospital at Oxford, has written a very interesting book called "The Psychology of Power."

The gist of the book is that the real resources of power, the real supply that we have to draw from in crises, consist in the things of the spirit and not the things of the flesh.

We generally suppose that the reservoir of energy which we tap consists of the food we eat and the air we breathe. This is the theory of the physicist.

The real scientist, however, consults psychology quite as much as physiology, and the best opinion is that the greatest supply of resources of power normally untapped is psychic rather than physical in character.

Fatigue results far more from what takes place in the thought than from what takes place in the body.

Captain Hadfield is advocating no thought cult, but approaches the question in the purest spirit of science. He bases his conclusion upon experiments he has actually made.

It is well known that fear often lends a man extraordinary strength. Excitement, anger or any other strong emotion enormously increases one's physical powers.

It is also a matter of common knowledge that an overmastering emotion not only expresses itself in mental vigor, but in physical manifestations such as a hot rush of blood to the veins, strong breathing, quivering nerves, tense muscles and the like. It is also known that under certain conditions an extraordinary expenditure of energy can place without equivalent fatigue. Indeed, fatigue consequent on great exertion seems to bear no necessary relation to the amount of energy expended.

It is the mind that becomes flagged.

It is the soul that gives out.

Captain Hadfield's volume ought to be of much inspiration to teachers and preachers everywhere. He says: "I have tried to show that the experience of applied psychology, especially psycho - therapy, points to the conclusion that we are living far below the limits of our possible selves, and that there are open to us resources of power available through the right use of our instincts, which, if directed to noble purposes, will free our minds from those worries, anxieties and morbid fatigues which spoil our lives, and will free us for a life of energy and strength."

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

THE IDEAL SENATOR
[New York Times]

If any candid observer of the proceedings of the senate during the past twenty years had been asked to name the senator who, year in and year out, came nearest to meeting the ideal of his office, he probably would have singled out Knute Nelson. This would not be because the senator from Minnesota was a greater orator. Nor was he supereminent in running debate. His superiority did not lie, either, in an unexampled wealth of learning, or great stores of knowledge appositely to be drawn upon for the needs of the hour. It was the spirit of the man, his rugged simplicity, his transparent fairness, his manifest desire to seek and cherish the well-being of the whole country, that made him—this foreign-born citizen—so valuable an upholder of the best traditions of the American senate. He was a party man, but never meanly partisan. He represented Minnesota, but he would have scorned to put the selfish interest of his own state, or even of his own section, above the general concern of the entire nation. Senator Nelson, whether consciously or not, held to the rule which Webster maintained and Lamar illustrated, that a United States senator is, in a true sense, a judge, sworn to hold the scales in even balance when great national questions are being tried out. He preserved his independence of judgment. Petty intrigues of party men and the plotting of little groups were abhorrent to his free and large manner of looking at big national problems. Both for personal reasons and as a worthy type his loss to the senate is grievous.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

An important question has been asked recently: "What happened to the 60,000 girls who disappeared in the United States last year?"

Really an appalling question. Doubtless the average citizen had no idea that so large a number had vanished. Yet girls from the country, the village and the city, disappear right along. Many of them are found, sorry and ashamed. Many more are never seen again by their families.

HENRY JAMES

It may be true that some discontented girls, feeling that they have a right to individual life, and to better environment than their homes afford, venture forth into the world, and make good. For the great majority who choose to leave no trace, the hope that they have made good is based on unwarranted optimism. The grave chances are that they have sunk to a social stratum so low, that they deem themselves utterly cut off from friends and relatives, and would prefer death to discovery.

There are traps for young women in every city. There are organized forces that have for their purpose the luring of young women to destruction. The more unsophisticated the subject, the greater her danger.

The Traveler's Aid society is intended to minimize the dangers of girls coming to the city. Its representatives meet every train. They tell young women where they may go in safety, escort them if necessary; warn them against temptations that otherwise might approach so disguised as to be unrecognizable.

This is an excellent work, worthy of support. It easily might assume a comprehensive magnitude that would bring down the present startling total of missing.

Volstead is being blamed for the increase of diabetes now. By this time he must be quite accustomed to being blamed for everything untoward. The theory in this particular instance is that people have turned to consumption of sugar and fats to get the heat formerly imparted by alcohol. It does not strike the judgment as convincing. Besides, it conflicts with other theories, emanating from sources as respectable.

People did not drink whisky for the sake of the heat it imparted. They drank it because they wanted a drink of whisky. Neither do they, in taking sugar in their coffee, care one whit as to the effect beyond its influence in rendering the coffee palatable.

Far more reasonable to suppose that the increase in diabetes, if there has been any, is due to the habit of drinking the poisonous substitutes that have taken the place of liquor made by honest distillers.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

Old Cordiality came around to call on us last night. That's what Mrs. Pilgrim calls him, "Old Cordiality." He is a Green Lodge handshaker. He is a back-patter. He is a biceps-puncher. He has a catfish smile. He said he wanted to interest us in an Americanization program for our town.

"Let us organize night schools and urge the foreigners in our midst to go to 'em," he said. "Let us bring pressure to bear on them to take out their first papers. Let us——"

He rose on his tiptoes——

"Let us make good Americans out of them."

Mrs. Pilgrim gave him what would be called in less refined circles than the one of which we are the undoubted ornaments a "bawling out." She said that Americans are not made that way. She mounted a neat flush as she regarded the cordial old pest who has weevilled into our home at intervals during the last few years.

"Americanism," she said, "is not a manufacture. It is a growth."

The best new American she knows, she said, is a Serb who could not talk English ten years ago. He reads with difficulty in our newspapers even yet. When he wishes to emphasize a statement to Yetska, or whatever her name is, he breaks naturally into flowing Serb. But he is an American to his heels.

SKY MAPPING IS LABOR OF MANY YEARS

[By Associated Press]

PARIS, May 23.—What is regarded here as one of the most interesting and valuable results of modern studies in astronomy is nearing completion in the Paris Observatory after 36 years of painstaking labor. It is a new map of the heavens and catalogue of the stars. The compilation shows that there are approximately 300,000,000 heavenly bodies visible through the powerful telescopes.

Photographing the heavens was a plan first developed by the Paris Observatory and its then director, Admiral Mouchez, was called here in 1887 to an international congress of astronomers which decided to map the heavens. There were 18 nations, including Mexico, Chile and the republics of Argentine and Brazil, which agreed to contribute to this work.

The heavens were subdivided, with four French observatories taking the central zones of the heavens.

Ten thousand leaves of the photographic map contain stars to the fourteenth magnitude, whereof there are above twenty millions. Stars to the sixth magnitude may be seen with the naked eye, and above that, telescopes and other aids are needed.

In reality, it is explained, the number of stars appear to be infinite. As huge lenses are constructed, each increase in the size of the lens reveals a larger number of stars.

A few years ago the number of stars was set at approximately one hundred millions. Now that number has been trebled, and as the explorers of new worlds in the universe progress in their studies, they find space filled with stars, the light of which reaches the eye of the explorer after years of travel, so distant are these bodies.

Mapping the heavens was a task not undertaken by astronomers previous to 1887 and before the work could be started, it was necessary to agree on plans concerning the size of the photographs and means of measurements. The majority of the astronomers of the world used their ingenuity and learning in the task.

By means of this new map, fresh measurements of the location, size, and nature of the stars may be made by astronomers and philosophic speculation stimulated as to the inhabitants, if any, of the stars and the general system and scheme of the universe.

Travelers from Orient Bring Rare Chinese Bacardi Birds of Good Omen

Purser and His Bacardi Bird.

Seattle, Wash., China, land of mystery, with its century old customs, beliefs and legends, is attracting more and more tourists from the United States every year. Travelers returning from the Orient bring with them many tales of new wonders discovered to them during their journeys through the Flowery Kingdom; of ancient legends of the Chinese, connected with history, household and business conduct, dress, general deportment and even pets.

Passengers on the President McKinley, of the Admiral-Oriental Line, which recently arrived at Seattle from Shanghai, presented to Purser Leo Mathews a rare Chinese bird for a pet, around which centers an ancient Chinese proverb.

The bird, known as a green Chinese Bacardi bird, is about the size of a dove, and is a rarity, even in China, its habitat. The Bacardi bird, whose body feathers are a dark green, has a bald head, and technically is known as a "bald headed Myner." It is found only in the depths of the jungles of Hunan Province.

For hundreds of years Bacardi birds have been eagerly sought by native hunters, who sell them to the well-to-do Chinese as pets. The Bacardi bird is considered not only an ideal house bird, as it whistles and sings, and can talk fluently, but is regarded as a sign of good omen.

The owner of one of these pets, according to Chinese legendery will be healthy, wealthy and wise as long as the Bacardi bird lives contented under his roof. If the bird, which is never caged, but is allowed the freedom of house and grounds, flies away, then the home and its owners, the story runs, are apt to be visited with bad luck.

Numerous are the stories of the good fortune the green Bacardi has brought to Chinese, and equally as numerous are the tales of misfortune concerning those who have been deserted by their pets for some mysterious reason. Naturally Americans in China have been greatly attracted by these tales, and as a consequence there has sprung up a big demand for green Bacardi birds, with a resultant increase in price for the unique pets.

On practically every Admiral-Oriental liner coming into Seattle from Shanghai, there is one or more Bacardi birds owned by passengers, who are very proud of their possessions, which are purchased with difficulty. When the President McKinley left on her last trip eastward frim China, a passenger brought aboard two green Bacardi birds. One of these took a sudden liking to the purser, and as a result was presented to him by the owner. The bird took up quarters in the purser's office, where he whistled and sang and chattered incessantly in Chinese.

The President McKinley proceeded on its voyage to Seattle, and events during the passage convinced the officers that Wo Man, as the Bacardi is called, lived fully up to his reputation as a bird of good omen.

The Admiral-Oriental liner made a fast trip and encountered unusually fine weather, never once being forced to slow down for heavy seas or gales. Other steamships with which she was in radio communication, however, on practically the same course, reported a continuance of the extremely bad weather which had prevailed on both the Pacific and the Atlantic this winter.

That Wo Man, the Bacardi bird has some benign influence over the elements and aided in permitting the President McKinley from running into storms, is the opinion of the personnel of the fast Admiral-Oriental liner.

Many passengers offered large prices to Purser Mathews for Wo Man when the President McKinley reached Seattle, but all were refused. Wo Man will stay by the ship and continue to be its mascot, and the steward has been ordered to lay in extra oranges and bananas, on which the Bacardi bird dotes, as offerings to the bringer of fair weather and good luck.

SPECIAL SHOWING OF MAY FETE FOR PARENTS

Central School Gala Day Program to Be Presented Thursday Evening

Central school students are looking forward to their "Gala day," Friday, May 25, with much the same enthusiasm that is evident before the high school and college "Tacky days" and "Ditch days." The "Gala day" celebration is an individual institution at Central school. The affair last year took on an importance, and created an interest among the school pupils and their parents which made it imperative that the celebration be continued as an annual institution.

This year a new arrangement will be made whereby parents of the children may attend a special performance on Thursday evening, and thus relieve some of the congestion which is bound to occur if all the mothers and fathers interested in the children's entertainment come to the Gala day program in the auditorium on Friday. Most of the fathers are unable to be in attendance during the day, and many of the mothers have home or social duties which also prevent them from seeing the children at play, so the new plan of entertaining the parents the evening previous to the celebration has been resorted to. An admission of 10 cents will be charged, and all money collected will go towards the cafeteria fund.

Last year so many parents attended the afternoon entertainment that the children were forced to sit upon the floor and stand about the walls and at the rear of the school auditorium, so as many as possible who wish to attend the affair this year are urged to take advantage of the special evening performance. Other events on Friday, and the classroom inspection of the children's work is open to the parents. The children are desirous of having their mothers and fathers see their best specimens of work, and the parents are cordially invited to attend on Friday to see the displays, and to witness the outdoor events.

Baseball games, races, group games, and athletic contests will be the features of the outdoor program in the afternoon, after the May fete.

An opportunity will be afforded the parents to see the school cafeteria in action, as all who attend Friday are invited to be served lunch at cost during the noon hour, after the children are settled.

The following program is announced for Friday:

Classroom work for parents' observation—9 to 10:20.

Recess—10:20 to 10:35.

Kindergarten Maypole — 10:35 to 11:30.

Lunch served to all at cost—11:30 to 1.

May Fete in Auditorium — 1 to 2.

Athletic events—2 to 3.

The program for the May fete entertainment is not fuly announced as most of the numbers are special surprise features which will entertain more if the children are allowed to guess and wonder about them a little, according to Miss Londergan, who is planning the dances and pageant. All costumes worn by the girls have been made by the girls themselves, under Miss Londergan's direction. They are elaborately fashioned of silk crepe paper and represent all the spring flowers. The solo dances will be a special feature of the program as a number of the participants are exceptionally talented and well trained by famous dancing instructors. The girls' glee club will sing several special selections and the orchestra will give instrumental numbers.

FOUR MINNESOTA WOMEN LIKE TO BE IN LEGISLATURE

[By Associated Press]

ST. PAUL, May 23.—The four women members of the Minnesota house of represntatives in the session just ended took their full part in legislative activity, consolidated their efforts along certain lines, and came through "with flying colors," according to their masculine colleagues. They worked together for legislation of particular interest to women.

They are Mrs. Hannah J. Kempfer, Mrs. Sue M. Dickey Hough, Mrs. Mabeth H. Paige and Miss Myrtle Cain. The interest they took in their work became a matter of comment. It was noted that they were the first at committee meetings and the last to leave.

And they liked it. With the exception of Miss Cain all have indicated a readiness to seek re-election two years hence.

Brooms that have been stood up the wrong way get crushed. Put a half-filled kettle on the fire, and when the steam comes strongly from the spout apply the crushed part of it. In a minute or so the bristles will rise into their original position. While steaming, the hand should be passed briskly over the surface of the broom to hasten its recovery. This method is effective for all brooms and brushes, whether bristles or fibre.

Twentieth Century Meeting This Week of Special Importance

On May 24 the Twentieth Century club will hold the annual election of officers at the regular meeting. The various committees will make reports. Mrs. Mary Fiske is chairman.

'BUNCO' AND 500 TO BE PLAYED AT PARTY

Proceeds to Be Turned Over to Saint Dominic's Parish

"Bunco" and "500" will be played at the card party to take place at the home of Mrs. A. C. May, 1131 West Hill avenue, Thursday afternoon, May 24. A musical program has been arranged and dancing will be a feature of the entertainment for those who do not care to take part in the card games.

Tickets are twenty-five cents and everyone is invited. The proceeds will go to Saint Dominic's church.

An old straw hat makes a useful basket for clothespins. Sew two tape handles on either side of the brim and the pins can be carried about quite easily.

When cooking a chop place it in a colander and pour over it a little boiling water. This will prevent any of the nutritious juices from being wasted. Then cook on gridiron in the usual way.

FUNERAL OF R. L. GALBRAITH IN INDIANA

Body to Be Shipped East on Thursday; No Services to Be Held Here

No funeral arrangements will be held here before the body of Ralph L. Galbraith, who passed away May 14, is shipped to Huntington, Indiana, in consideration of doctor's orders owing to the weakened condition of Mr. Galbraith's young wife who has just returned home with her two weeks' old baby. Mr. Galbraith was taken suddenly by an attack of chronic heart trouble. His wife is attended now by her mother and sister. She is bearing up bravely under the shock.

Mrs. Mary Galbraith, mother of Mr. Galbraith, and Mrs. Blanche Holder, sister, will accompany the body to the family home in Indiana where the funeral services will be held.

"What kind of a man is he," inquired Jones as the campaign approached, "good, bad or indifferent?"

"Well, that depends a good deal who is on the other end of the plank with him," replied Smith.

"What do you mean?" asked the other.

"Why, if you size him up with Judas Iscariot he looms up middlin' fair, but when you set him up against such fellows as you and me he does dwindle terrible surprisin'—he does, for a fact."

M'GRAW IS FINDING SOME HARD SPOTS

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, May 23.—While there is no reason to believe that the New York Giants have blown any of their many chances to win their third straight National League pennant, the early part of the season indicated that McGraw may not make the expected runaway in the championship race.

Instead of being "in" by mid-July, as many rabid New York fans predicted when the Giants were making monkeys of the Brooklyn, Boston and Philadelphia clubs, the contrary may result and the world's champions may not runt out into real form until they have been boiled out by the June sun.

The formidable clubs from the west on their first invasion of the east found the Giant pitching staff in a fragile state and unless warm weather brings some form out of veteran arms, the same weakness will handicap the Giants all thru the race.

Pittsburgh was the only National League club to get away on its right foot according to expectations, and the Pirates are even doing better than was anticipated. Man for man, the Pirates are almost as strong as the Giants, and if McKechnie gets anything from his pitchers the National League pennant might not be decided until late fall.

Jack Bentley, the $65,000 Baltimore pitcher, was a big disappointment to the Giants. He reported overweight and out of shape, and McGraw resorted to his pet policy of teaching his pitchers by making them take a good beating when they need it.

Some very good critics who watched Bentley in the International league predicted that McGraw would have to pet Bentley to get results from him and that he would also have to pick spots for his prize hurler. Jack Dunn, it is said, made a pitcher out of Bentley by using him only against clubs against which he was particularly effective, and against the ones who could get him he used him on first base.

While McGraw has lost much of the fire that used to decorate the Giants with pugilistic trimmings, he still gets out the big stick when the occasion demands. He disciplined three of his stars in the training camp and when "Rosey" Ryan failed to deliver, in the early season, he suspended him until he could get in shape.

It was not the old umpire-baiting, battling McGraw, who said, after Casey Stengel was suspended for ten days some time back for fighting with Weinert, a Philadelphia pitcher:

"Fights on the field do not help the club or game. If necessary, they should be staged off the field. Stengel's suspension weakened the Giants. The delivery that Stengel thought was meant for a 'bean' was a slow ball, and surely he shouldn't have seen any danger or ill-intent in that. I regret that our man was the aggressor."

That was the new McGraw, and when evidence of such a transformation in temperament is at hand it is not too much to expect that Gil Dobie may smile some day and admit that he has some good football players at Cornell.

Foley's Friendly Fancies

JAMES W. FOLEY

A MEMORY

The old apple barrel in the cellar,
How well I remember it now;
I don't know what trick of my fancy
Brought the smell of those apples somehow
Right here to my desk with a savor
And fragrance I cannot deny;
And almost I taste me the flavor
Of a big apple hooked on the sly.

There were Baldwins and Winesaps and Pippins
And Russets and Greenings, Ah me,
When I lift up the lid of that barrel
What big, juicy apples I see.
And the smell of them came up to greet me,
How fragrant, how luscious and sweet,
When I tiptoed the back cellar stairway
With soundless and noiseless barefeet.

I remember I took off the cover,
I smelled me down into the dark,
And then I leaned me quickly over
The barrel and balanced when—hark!
A footstep I heard in the hallway,
And then down the old cellar stair,
And I caught on a nail in the barrel
And firmly it held me right there.

And there in the darkness she found me,
Leaned over that barrel, Ah me,
With the part of me upmost and foremost,
Just as she would have it to be.
And today with the fragrance and odor
That memories lavishly bring,
Right where I am sitting this minute
I can feel that same tingle and sting.

Mrs. Flubdub had eight ladies in to play bridge. Before they started she called them softly; they filed into the dining room, where eight cocktails awaited them. Eight glasses were raised to the resourceful hostess.

"Of course, it isn't the stuff we used to get," she was explaining. But just then Mr. Glubdub's querulous voice was heard from the cellar.

"Has anybody seen that rat poison?"

Eight glasses descended to the mahogany with a crash.

CONSTITUTION TO BE THEME OF LAWYERS

National Campaign to Be Staged by Attorneys

[By Associated Press]

DALLAS, Texas, May 23.—The services of leading members of the American Bar Association are being enlisted as speakers on national holidays and other patriotic occasions in an effort to have laws passed requiring the teaching of the United States Constitution in the various states and in encouraging summer conferences on citizenship-training in schools and colleges.

The appeal to the members of the bar is being made by the citizenship committee of the association, of which R. E. L. Saner, of this city, is chairman. As a result, Mr. Saner states that he anticipates many hundreds of the bar association members will address audiences on May 30 during celebration of Memorial day.

"Our citizenship committee feels that the peculiar duty which is laid upon our profession at this time is that of educating the public on the essentials and spirit of the American constitution."

Miss Mildred Milville Mallison, the anti-vice worker, said in an address in Pittsburg: "The freedom now granted women is a gain, but it is also a loss. In one of my recent anti-vice campaigns I put up at a New Orleans hotel. Entering the breakfast room one morning I found three fat men established there, each with a newspaper and a black cigar. Of course the room was full of smoke. While waiting for my breakfast I coughed several times, but nobody took the hint, so I said to myself: 'H'm. I always understood that New Orleans men were models of French politeness.' The three fat men were on their feet in an instant, smiling and bowing and scraping like so many monkeys. 'Pardon me, madam,' said they in chorus, and each opened and extended to me courteously a cigar case full of black cigars."
